Attorney General Says 'No Galiano Conflict'

Trustee To Drop Lawsuit

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Th California attorney general's office has indicated no conflict of interest exists between Trustee Peter Galiano, an attorney for the California Teachers' Association, and a member of the Jefferson Elementary School Board.

In a letter to Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, dated October 17, Deputy Attorney General Richard L. Mayers, in an "informal expression of views" said he could see "no application of the conflict of interest statutes" to the present situation concerning Galiano.

The conflict of interest charges stemmed from Galiano's fellow trustees several weeks after it was revealed the attorney had represented the California Teachers' Association (CTA).

Chairman George Perry immediately appointed two trustees—O. Wayne Douglas and Thomas Noonan—to investigate Galiano's activities and report back to the board with their findings.

However, in a surprise move to prevent what he called "gumshoeing into my life," Galiano filed an injunction naming the other four trustees as defendants.

"I have never objected to an open investigation by competent authority into my activities," discussion on acquisition of a Galiona told The Post earlier "However, I do object to this private sleuthing."

Bruno Fetes Wally

By DON GRIERSON

San Bruno city officials and civic leaders went all out Monday to express the city's appreciation to hometown hero Wally Bunker, Baltimore Oriole pitcher, who won the third game of the 1966 World Series with a 1-0 shutout of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Wally and his wife, the former Kathy Wild of Millbrae, were guests of honor at a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored "Wally Bunker Day Luncheon" at the Lazy V restaurant.

He served as honorary mayor at Monday night's meeting of the city council, and heard Mayor Barberian read a proclamation designating October 24 "Wally Bunker Day" in San Bruno.

Among the luncheon speakers were Congressman Arthur Younger, who praised Wally for "adding a great deal of luster to the image of our district and especially to the City of San Bruno"; State Assemblyman Leo Ryan, who is one of Wally's former teachers; Supervisor Bud Harrison, and other dignitaries.

A number of Wally's former Capuchino High School teachers also were on hand, along with

Bruno Will Buy New Equipment

San Bruno city councilmen voted to accept the bid of Fairway Chevrolet Company on eight pieces of equipment for the Public Works Department Monday night.

The firm's bid of $15,000 on two three-quarter ton dumps, four pickup trucks, and two lifts, was the lowest of three entered.

The bid of General Electric Company on mobile radio equipment was accepted. The General Electric bid of $2,192 was the higher of two bids entered on the equipment, but councilmen said the equipment described in the other bid did not meet specifications.

The council adopted a resolution accepting a deed for a water tank site from the California Highway Department. The site replaces another site relinquished by the city for construction of the Junipero Serra Freeway.

Another resolution was adopted authorizing a representative of the city to acquire surplus property for civil defense purposes.

Councilmen voted to grant permission to the 4-H Club to sell Christmas trees this winter, and to issue a similar permit to Boy Scout Troop 189 for the sale of holly.

In other busines, the library was authorized to remain open on November 8 because of the proximity of a legal holiday to the genera lelections, and the council voted to close the city park on Hallowe'en at the request of the police department.

Baltimore Oriole pitcher Wally Bunker presided as honorary mayor at the meeting, and Mayor Karney Barberian presented a proclamation naming October 24 "Wally Bunker Day" in San Bruno to Mr. and Mrs. Bunker.

Most of the Fairmont Shopping Center's stores will open for the first time today.

Plansmen Seek New Position

Pacifica planning commissioners recommended the establishment of a new post in the city's planning department Monday night.

Under the proposed change, a zoning administrator would be appointed to assist planning administrator Lawrence McLaughlin.

Rollins New Trustee In San Bruno

Eugene M. Rollins, a personnel representative for United Airlines, was appointed to the San Bruno Park School District Board of Trustees Monday night.

Rollins, a former school teacher with a university degree in education, moved to San Bruno from Los Angeles in 1964. He taught school 12 years before joining the airline's staff.

He was appointed to fill the post vacated by former trustee Glenn Smith, who moved to another city.

Rollins resides with his wife and three children at 2761 Plymouth Way.

Sixth Annual Yule Contest Has Started

Gift certificates totaling $200 are being offered to girls and boys six to 10 years of age, in The Times and Post Sixth Annual Christmas Contest, starting today.

Photographs of the daily winners will appear Monday through Saturday in The Times and each Wednesday in the Post until December 21.

They can be found on the Christmas Gift Spotter page, a unique page that displays hundreds of carefully selected gifts, conveniently placed under headings that includes everyone on the gift list.

This year the youngsters will write letters to The Times and Post on the subject, "My Best Christmas."

From these letters will be chosen the best for gift-prize awards. They will be published in The Times and The Post.

Two winners are selected each day.

Communications Pact Awarded

In a whirlwind meeting Monday night, the Daly City Council awarded a $160,184 contract to the Emil J. Weber Company for installation of communications equipment in the new city hall complex.

The matter was the center of controversy last month after Motorola Communications Company submitted low bid on the project.

Two companies—Weber and Buzzei Electric—protested the motorola bid, claiming the company did not have the proper license to install the equipment outlined in the bid.

After studying the matter for more than two weeks, the city council decided to follow city attorney Paul Huph's suggestion and award the contract to the next lowest bidder—Weber.

In other action Monday night, the council shelved a request made by Chryso Adams to operate a beauty salon in her home at 272 Templeton Avenue.

Councilman Edward J. Dennis opposed the tabling of the matter and said, "I'm against letting these things pile up on us. I think we should act on the request tonight."

However, Mayor Albert E. Polonsky's suggestion that the matter be further studied by the council was agreed upon.

Set BACK The Clock

Just in case you've been wondering ... this Sunday marks the end of another daylight savings time episode in California.

With it comes that hour you lost last spring.

So when you retire, set the clock at your bedside (and all the others, too) back an hour—for example, from 1 a.m. to midnight.

Student Wins Post Football Pick Event

A 14-year-old student at San Carlos High School, Bob Petersen, is the sixth week's winner in the Times-Post Football Contest.

Petersen, 14 El Sereno Court, won $250.

He named all 15 winners correctly and gave the nearest estimate of 350 net yards of the 358 made by the 49ers in their game against Detroit last Sunday.

Another contestant who picked 15 correctly but missed the yardage was Bob Greeno of Colma (390 yards).

In the seventh week of the contest, a cash prize of $50 is being offered plus a $50 bonus for being a home-delivered subscriber to The Times.

Thursday night is deadline.

Peterson is active in sports and a member of the tennis team and maintains a high academic record.

'Invest in Yourself' —Cry at Night School

"Invest in yourself," is the rallying cry of Thomas Redmond, new principal of the Jefferson Union High School District adult school division.

"The way technology is advancing," Redmond has ben telling adult groups, "the time is coming when a person will have to go to school virtually all of his life just to keep up. The bulk of education will be adult education," he explained.

"Just one night a week, now may mean better job opportunities a few years from now. Adults shouldn't look on adult education as a weekly chore, but as an investment in the future," he pointed out.

Figures from last school year indicate that the future envisioned by Redmond is already here. Of the total JUHSD population, 9.8 per cent was enrolled in night school as against 7.7 per cent attending regular day school.

Thes school-going adults are not "special" people soaking up specialized knowledge for exotic reasons. The average adult school student is a woman, about 40, a high school graduate who has at least one child in public school and who is now attending adult school to resume an old interest or whet a new one.

The average male student, who is outnumber 2-1, fits about the same description as his female counterpart (often his wife), is in the manufacturing business and is coming to school to prepare for either a new job or for an improved position in the old one.

More adults, usually men, are engaged in te general area of business than any other, but there is also a high enrollment in the home economics courses.

There has also been a strong propensity in this district in recent years toward the arts. Some adults in painting classes have been exhibited more than once, and have sold paintings. Others in creative writing classes have been published in national poetry magazines, done work for local newspapers and sold various other articles and stories, he reminded.

Much of this type of success has been due to one of the lowest teacher-student ratios in Northern California adult schools, about 20-1.

At $1—and then only if NOT taking a course for credit—adult education may indeed be the finest investment one can make, Redmond said.

ion on the matter last August, the San Mateo County District Attorney's office "disassociated" itself from the matter after a series of communications between Perry and District Attorney Keith Sorenson's office.

According to Sorenson, Chairman Perry had requested the conflict matter be referred to the attorney general's office for an opinion.

Sorenson refused to pass the matter on to the attorney general and suggested the board obtain private counsel in the matter. He then advised them he was "disassociating" his office from the matter.

The attorney general's letter fell into the midst of the current CTA ethics probe of district activities.

In his letter to Ryan Mayers said:

"You have asked whether this individual's membership on a school board constitutes a violation of existing conflict of interest statutes. These statutes (Education Code 1174-1177) prescribe various limitations on the degree to which the member of a governing board may be interested in 'any contract made by the board of which he is a member' (Ed. Code 1174). "Your letter (of October 7) does not indicate that there are any contracts that have been entered into between the governing board and this indivdual as a private attorney or any contracts that are anticipated.

"I see no application of the conflict of interest statutes to the situation you have described," Mayers wrote.

The letter went on to point out that "his (Galiano's) incumbency on a school board does not constitute a violation of any conflict of interest statutes by reason of his employment by an association that is interested in educational affairs.

Galiano said he would now withdraw his lawsuit against his fellow board members and labeled the matter "no longer outstanding."

Stewardess Charges Four In Assault

Two San Jose men charged with rape in connection with an incident involving a pretty airline stewardess Saturday night in South San Francisco were arraigned in North County Municipal Court Tuesday.

Another man involved in the case posted $2,200 bond and is scheduled to appear for arraignment November 7.

A 17-year-old boy accused along with the three men in the case has been turned over to San Mateo County juvenile authorities.

The 24-year-old stewardess has charged the four men with abducting her at a San Francisco bar and raping her alternately during an hour-long drive to South San Francisco.

Police said the four were arrested by officer Bill Wright at the corner of Neuman and Alta Mesa Avenues as they milled around their parked car.

Arraigned and held in lieu of bond were Charles Trail, 23, 2826 South First Street, and Leonard McNeil, 20, 3010 South First Street. Both entered pleas of not guilty. Joseph Wharton, 19, 3010 South First Street, posted bond.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled November 10.

The woman told police the men grabbed her off a sidewalk outside a Lombard Street bar in San Francisco and held her in the car. She said each man repeatedly raped her while they drove from one secluded spot to another, finally stopping when officer Wright approached the car in South San Francisco.

Police would not identify the woman or the juvenile involved in the alleged kidnap-rape.

The 17-year-old boy resides in Los Gatos. Juvenile authorities declined to reveal disposition of his case.

one of his former coaches, Frank Mahoney.

Heading the list of area baseball greats on hand to honor the 21-year-old pitcher was Walter Mails, a southpaw who once pitched two shutouts in one World Series and now directs the San Francisco Giant youth program.

Other speakers were Mayor Karney Barberian, Chamber of Commerce President Bill Snyder, former Mayor Al Grundy and television personality Bud Foster, who was master of ceremonies.

Monday afternoon the Capuchino High School Band led marchers down San Mateo Avenue in a "Wally Bunker Day" parade.

Between arranged events, Wally visited the St. Robert's School and autographed baseballs for his young followers.

Jeff School Site Plans Being Made

Jefferson High School District's Pengate School planning continue to progress.

A recent meeting of district officials and representatives of the Crocker Land Company worked out some preliminary site details, Superintendent Ed Morgan told trustees Monday night.

Further metings to discuss final plans will be arranged in the future betwen Crocker and Jefferson representatives.

Morgan, taling about the new Serramonte High School, told the board that a September 1968 opening of the as yet un-built school is the "target."

Schematics and plot drafts are expected in two weeks, the superintendent said.

Morgan said he thought trustees would be "very pleased" with the Serramonte plot plans.

The trustees continue to think about the McArthur Street lot—unused district property that has been called an eyesore by neighbors, who have asked the board to keep the lot clean up.

Jefferson administrators are recommending the lot be put up for sale. A price of $8,000 has been mentioned. This week, trustes tabled the matter again.

'Power To Preview' Law Urged

South San Francisco Planning Commissioners instructed the city attorney to propose an ordinance which will give the city council "power to review" future decisions on amendments to planned community ordinances Monday night.

Planning Director Dan Pass said the proposed ordinance would have the effect of empowering the council to look into the Planning Commission's decisions and determine whether or not the commission "abuses its discretion."

Planners Reject Pacifica Rezone

Pacifica planning commissioners denied a request to rezone a 31-acre site at Mori's Point from agricultural to commercial for development as a drive-in movie theater after several residents of the area objected to the change in a public hearing Monday night.

The zoning change was requested in an application from Nolan Martins. Commissioners stated they felt the proposed development is "not the best use for the property."

Residents of nearby Fairway Park entered objections to rezoning the property, which is located west of the Coast Highway and south of Mori's Point Road.

In other business, the commission continued the quarry permit of Marks Materials Company for 90 days, and approved reclassification of two parcels of land on the east side of Oceana Boulevard from office and garden apartment to neighborhood commercial.

The Chapel Choir of youth will sing at the 9:30 worship service and the Chancel Choir of adults will sing at the 11 o'clock service.

The second of four weekly Bible classes will be held by the pastor, the Rev. Herbert Tweedie, at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday—being "faith," "hope," "love," and "truth."

Occupancy Taxation Talk in Pacifica

Pacifica councilmen will consider the city's hotel tax ordinance resolution tonight.

If adopted, the proposed ordinance will place a 4 per cent levy on hotel and motel rates.

The council will also hear a progress report on the pedestrian overcrossing on San Jose Avenue and a report on ocean outfall repair from the city engineer.

Other business will include a report from the traffic safety commission and consideration of several zoning matters.

THE SHADOW KNOWS: Some folks apparently thingk the Brown Act is a vaudeville team. Biggest violators of "The Act" are certain north county governing bodies who either don't know what the law involves — or just don't care! Or maybe those early morning coffee klaches between our elected officials are accidental meetings. Let's hope if they are, no official business is discussed. Tell you what fellas; next time I stumble onto one, I'll pop in and coffee up with you.

EGG ON OUR FACE: Remember that story that ran on the upcoming CTA ethics probe which indicated the study would "center around" the current conflict of interest fued between trustee Peter Galiano and other Jeff Elementary board members? You don't? Then forget it. But if you do, we want to erase a mistaken impression the story made: the probe WILL NOT center around anything. The local chapter of the CTA asked for (and got) the study underway long before the present flareup. Nuff said!

MORE EGG ON OUR FACE: Last week's SCRIPTS said a 10-year-old FDR School pupil "hovered near death" as a result of a beating by fellow classmates. That's not so, claims the child's mother — he only suffered kidney damage. While we are happy to hear his condition is not as bad as at first reported; the incident is no less serious. And we ask again: "What's going on in our schools? Are we training our children for combat?"

Apparently that outfit (King Associates of San Francisco) which conducted a hush hush survey over thataway last Saturday, asking residents about their feelings on the (whew) garbage dump, budget and row housing. Why the secrecy? A similar survey was taken about two years ago, on almost the same subjects.

Suspect in D.C. Robbery, Attack Captured in San Jose

The suspected rapist of an attractive Westlake housewife was arrested by San Jose police as he attempted to escape a police dragnet in a stolen car after breaking into a home in that city last Saturday night.

Raymond Duncan, 28, described as having a long record of offenses, allegedly broke into a San Jose home armed with a .22-caliber pistol and masked with a pillowcase.

The unidentified San Jose housetwife returned home and smelled cigarette smoke. She ran to a neighbor's home and asked him to investigate.

As the neighbor entered the home, Duncan allegedly threatened him with the gun and attempted to subdue the victim. Instead, the man screamed and Duncan fled in the car stolen last week from the rape victim in Daly City.

Shortly after, a San Jose policeman stopped Duncan for failing to dim his car headlights to oncoming vehicles, police said.

Daly City detectives said keys found on Duncan belonged to the Westlake victim. Fingerprints taken at the scene in Daly City also matched Dunan's, police said.

The Daly City car was abandoned in San Jose; the suspect "picked up" another car near the second victim's home and sped off.

Police found a suit coat inside the car with Duncan's identification in the pocket. Police said the coat belonged to the second victim's husband.

A state-wide description of the suspect and victim's car was sent out immediately after the Daly City incident.

Police said none of the stolen property had been recovered as yet.

Police said Duncan is presently on parole from Fresno County Jail to San Francisco. He has been in and out of prisons since age 16, according to the report.

The Daly City victim, mother of two small children, earlier described her attacker as a dark male, slender, and wearing a blue knit stocking pulled snugly over his head.

At the time the assailant broke into the fashionable Westlake section home last Wednesday he was armed with a knife.

After trussing up his victim, and gagging her with female undergarments and a cord from a venetian blind, he systematically ransacked the home.

Before fleeing in the victim's car, he raped the helpless housewife.

A 19-year-old unemployed Pacifican, Wayne Carl Cavalli, Sunday was arrested on two counts of burglarly after his apprehension in the Pacifica Auto Parts Store.

Cavalli, of 623 Claridge Drive, was charged also with the burglarly of the Milagra Medical Center.

Pacifica Patrolman Pete Nannarone said he looked through a back window of the auto parts store and saw the suspect attempting to get coins from a cigarette machine.

Nannarone, who had been dispatched to the scene, along with Patrolman Dan McGee, and Charles English, on a tip from a passerby who said someone was in the store, tapped on the window and told Cavalli to "freeze."

The suspect was arrested without incident.

San Bruno Boy Hurt At School

A nine-year-old pupil at San Bruno's Allen Elementary School Monday morning sufferd a severe laceration of the upper right arm while swinging from a volleyball pole.

The weight of the victim's body tore open a deep gash.

San Bruno police escorted the youngster to Peninsula Hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory.

School authorities said the child was not supposed to be playing on the pole.

Lions Essay Judges Being Named Soon

Joe Mottola, president of the Daly City-Colma Lions Club today said that judges will soon be appointed to review essays received from Daly City, Broadmoor and Colma areas in the Lions International Golden Anniversary Essay contest.

The contest was recently entered into the Congressional Record as a "meritorious undertaking."

Mottola said the contest is open to all people in Daly City, Colma and Broadmoor who are 14 years of age and under 22 as of January 15, 1967.

The contest was initiated to generate an awareness and understanding of peace among tomorrow's leaders, Mottola said, adding, "the essays will release the ideas of a cross-section of the world's youth on the most pressing challenge facing the world today."

The Contest offers a grand prize of $25,000 in the form of an educational and/or career assistance grant to the world winner. A grand total of $50,000 in awards will be made. In addition to the $25,000 first prize, eight world division semi-finalist prizes of $1,000 each will be given and these eight semi-finalists will also get travel expenses to Chicago, Ill., in July 1967. At that time, the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight. Also more than 20,000 local, district and multiple district awards will be made.

The Daly City-Colma Lions Club's winner will be advancing up the ladder to that prize.

The contest, announced at the Forty-niner Annual Lions Convention in New York, by President Edward M. Lindsey, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., is one of the highlights of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the world's largest service club organization.

The world-wide contest, open to contestants sponsored by Lions' more than 20,000 clubs throughout the world, is the largest Peace Essay Contest in the world.

If successful at the mutliple district level, the winner will advance to a world division and an opportunity for the grand prize.

World divisional winners will receive $1,000 and a trip to Chicago for Lions' Fiftieth Anniversary Convention for the final judging of the contest.

"Anyone who wants the rules and further details of the contest should contact any member of the Daly City-Colma Lions Club, or me," Mottola said.

Ugly is only skin-deep.

It may not be much to look at. But beneath that humble exterior beats an air-cooled engine. It won't boil over and ruin your piston rings. It won't freeze over and ruin your life. It's in the back of the car where the weight on the rear wheels makes the traction better in snow and sand. And it will give you about 27 miles to a gallon of gas.

After a while you get to like so much about the VW, you even get to like what it looks like.

You find that there's enough legroom for almost anybody's legs. Enough headroom for almost anybody's head. With a hat on it. Snug-fitting bucket seats. Doors that close so well you can hardly close them. (They're so airtight, it's better to open the window a crack first.)

Those plain, unglamorous wheels are each suspended independently. So when a bump makes one wheel bounce, the bounce doesn't make the other wheel bump. It's things like that you pay the $1717* for, when you buy a VW. The ugliness doesn't add a thing to the cost of the car.

That's the beauty of it.

Vote for Robert St. Clair Urged

Members of the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo County represent a geographical division of five districts in the county, but are elected at large. This has proved a wise arrangement and has provided a well-unified and stable county government.

Nevertheless, it is well to bear in mind that it is a representational form of government and that the people of any given supervisorial district are justly entitled to expect the supervisor of their district to represent the district, in particular, as well as the whole county.

This is one of the reasons why The Post recommends the election of Robert (Bob) St. Clair for supervisor of the second district at the impending election on November 8.

Many of the people in north San Mateo County have recently been dissatisfied with what they consider to be a lack of attention to their needs and wishes. For them, St. Clair is the ideal choice because he has been a councilman and mayor of neighboring Daly City during the period of the greatest growth in the second district and no man is more familiar with its needs and problems. In all fairness, the voters of the rest of the county must take this into consideration when they make their choice at the polls.

They would make no mistake in doing this since there are other reasons why Bob St. Clair would be a good man to have as a county supervisor.

Perhaps the best of these is that he has a real, practical, working background of experience in local government. It is experience gained in the actual give and take on the council floor of a busy and bustling city, gained in representing that city before the state, and before other cities of the state, and experience learned the hard way in the endless job of providing an effectual municipal government.

Beyond this, St. Clair has made a practice of familiarizing himself with details of the myriad matters that come before local government. For example, he is extremely well-informed, and has a comprehensive understanding, on the major matter of sewage disposal—which happens to be one of the biggest issues now before the Board of Supervisors. He knows about planning and land use from study and from an active part in forming and deciding policy.

As mayor of Daly City, he was a more than competent presiding officer who expedited the work of the council and gave fair, but brief and brisk, hearing to the pressure groups that so often delay and impede the processes of local government.

In the opinion of The Post, he has more to offer county government than the governor-appointed incumbent who is his opponent in the supervisorial race.

St. Clair is nationally known for his career on the football gridiron where he held an enviable reputation for aggressiveness, clear-thinking and sportsmanship. He was able to bring the same qualities to his work in government.

He can bring them to the Board of Supervisors where they would be valuable to all the people of San Mateo County.

Vote for Robert (Bob) St. Clair for supervisor of the second district.

'Bob' Miller For Assemblyman!

It is time to change the State Assemblyman who represents the northern half of San Mateo County officially designated as the Twenty-seventh Assembly District. Moreover, it is an opportune time to make this change because the challenging candidate at the forthcoming November general election has the stature, the ability, the concern, and the sincerity, that the job demands.

These qualities have not been notably demonstrated by the incumbent Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, who seeks re-election. Ryan has been more notable as a camp-follower of Speaker Jesse (Big Daddy) Unruh whose chief interests are in southern California and not in San Mateo County. Ryan has also achieved something considerably less than distinction by several other politically inept, not to say curious, episodes of his assembly career.

These include such matters as:

His very recent backing and filling as the sole opposed Assemblyman to the proposed Constitutional Revision program which will appear on the November ballot as Proposition No. 1-A. As the lone opponent, Ryan was designated to submit the official argument against this proposition. Instead, he indulged in some fancy footwork and finally submitted an argument prepared by an opposition party senator from Orange County. He has candidly admitted that he was opposed to the legislation principally because its legislative salary increase provisions were not enough.

His financial concern was very possibly related to another episode earlier this year when the San Mateo Union High School District terminated an arrangement under which he was drawing some pay from the distrct as an educator while also drawing pay and allowances as an Assemblyman.

One more example should suffice. In March of this year Ryan told a political meeting that Congressman J. Arthur Younger had made a "deal" whereby he would retire in July, after the primary election, so that the Republican Central Committee could appoint someone as a candidate. This was untrue and has been proved untrue. At that time The Post called the attacks on Younger a political "foul" and promised to remind the voters of it. This is the reminder.

The people of northern part of San Mateo County, Democrats and Republicans alike, can judge these things for themselves. Most certainly they need better representation and an Assemblyman who is not herd-bound and hog-tied as a legislator by the apron strings of party ties.

Fortunately, they have in Candidate Robert N. Miller a man who is wholly sincere in seeking to represent the district. His is the candidacy of a businessman responding to a call for public service from a sense of responsibility, concern over ever-increasing taxes, and a desire to actually do something about the problems of the district and the state. He believes that the voters of the Twenty-seventh District are more interested in hardworking, bi-partisan representation than they are in political machinations and political gamesmanship.

The Post recommends the election of Robert N. Miller as Assemblyman for the Twenty-seventh District—and it goes beyond this:

It recommends to the voters of the district that they take a good, hard look at the man they have as an incumbent and an equally good, hard look at Robert N. Miller, businessman, veteran, and a candidate who really wants to serve them well and unselfishly.

Those who take that good, hard look, will vote for Robert N. (Bob) Miller for Assemblyman of the Twenty-seventh District.

Ronald Reagan For Governor

In the past eight years the whole state of California has changed amazingly. It has achieved the largest population of any state in the Union and they are getting more pressing each day. The most painful problem is that of taxes where California also leads the nation with an average per capita of $379 in state and local taxes as compared with a national average of $266.

What has not changed in these eight years is the executive governmental leadership of California. Its top executive has continued to bumble along with the same makeshifts, expedients, and bookkeeping magic he brought with him when he took office for his first term as governor. While everything else in California has gone ahead, its leadership has remained at the level of eight years ago. It exhibits a tendency to fumble with the state's problems on a piecemeal basis and to lean ever more heavily on the crutch of federal aid.

NEW hope for California, therefore, lies in new leadership of definite direction and forthright vigor. This is why The Post has decided to recommend to its readers the election of Ronald Reagan as Governor of California.

The state needs leadership that is bold, dynamic and effective; that will really strive to lift tax burdens and correct tax inequities while creating a tax climate that will reap full advantage from the state's forward progress. It cannot maintain that forward progress with policies that attempt an illusory juggling of revenues and dodge the real issues.

The state needs leadership that is willing to cope with problems of all kinds, poverty, crime, unemployment, water, welfare, education, traffic, smog, and a host of others, through state and local governmental co-operation of genuine responsibility and concern.

The state needs leadership that is not afraid to give bipartisan government a fair chance and trust in the people.

It needs vision at the top and performance to match it.

ALL these needs have been recognized and pinpointed as the issues by Ronald Reagan. He has declared determination to meet them squarely and fully. The Post is convinced that he means what he says and that the people of California want the kind of leadership he intends to give them.

The present campaign has been, and continues to be, a rough one. All of the artillery of ridicule and denigration has been employed but the polls show that the voters are getting the sincerity of Ronald Reagan loud and clear through the noise of battle.

TOO, a lot has been said about experience in the course of the campaign but the voters know that the quality of experience is its product and it is plain to see that they have been getting very little product from the kind of experience that currently controls state administration. It would be much better to have the benefits of vigor and decision wielded with purpose and common sense, instead of the debts and drawbacks of outworn political expediency.

Bring California up to its rightful position and to its promise as the greatest of the states. Vote for Ronald Reagan for Governor.

Re-Elect Jordan

For the past six terms California's Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan has carried out his duties as an election official, and as record-keeper of the official acts of state government, so satisfactorily and competently that he has been re-elected five times despite partisan sweeps that have presently left him the only Republican holding state-wide office.

He now seeks re-election for a seventh term as Secretary of State and The Post, as it has in the past, again recommends to its readers that they vote for him.

Jordan deserves retention in office, not only on the basis of his excellent record and the unmatched economy with which he has administered the affairs of his office, but also because he is very much alive to the need of bringing California the most modern of techniques in registration and voting in order to cope with its nation-topping population.

Secretary Jordan has not only done his job well, but has also launched upon the methods and programs of doing it even better in the future.

It's a Sad Bunch of Youngsters...

By FRANK LaPIERRE

There's a sad looking bunch of youngsters knocking on North County doors these days, selling candy mints at a dollar a box.

They may look sad, but their spirits soar to miraculous heights at the end of a hard day of peddling when they count their money.

The "Marsh Plan," as local police agencies call it, isn't new to either the North County or to California. It has been launched successfully in Daly City at least three times in the past two years, police said.

Detective Sgt. John Kolbmann explained to The Times how the plan operates:

Children are approached in Richmond or East Oakland (police believe the "Marsh Plan" is an East Oakland organization) and asked if they would like to make some money selling candy from door to door. Maximum age of a boy is normally 14 years.

After recruiting a couple of dozen youth, the "Fagan" drives them to a distant city where they are dropped off at street corners armed with a carton (48 boxes) of mints. They ar told where and when to reassemble for pickup.

Blitz coverage of an area such as the Westlake section of Daly City often results in sales of 1,000 boxes of the cheap candy in a single afternoon, originally purchased for less than 25 cents.

The children work in pairs.

While one carries the candies, his partner presents the person answering the door with a card identifying the bearer as a representative of the Marsh Plan (or some similar plan) and that the sale will aid poor children, or perhaps some well-known organization.

Special Report

If the boy doesn't run off with the $48 after selling his assigned carton (almost 15 per cent of the children do), he will turn over the proceeds and receive for his efforts about 10 cents per box.

In other words; while the seller makes $4.80 for an afternoon's work, his boss realizes some $43. This amount multiplied by the number of boys "working an area" adds up to a considerable sum of money, Kolbmann points out.

The local operation was brought to light last week with the arrest of four young boys by Officer James Van Pelt, on charges of peddling without a license.

Police said the boys — ranging in age from 10 to 14 years old — did not know who had recruited them for the soliciting. The children were identified only as "residents of East Oakland."

Each year, similar candy peddlers take thousands of dollars away from legitimate charities, Kolbmann said.

How can a citizen recognize a legitimate drive, Kolbmann was asked?

"Simple! Most legitimate drives are pre-announced by the concerned agency, either in the press or over the radio," Kolbmann answered. "And if it's a Scout drive, they will likely be wearing their uniforms or have positive identification.

"I can best sum up what precautionary measures to take in just two words — caveat emptor —let the buyer beware," he said.

Barbara Bladen The Marquee

Great Expectations in the entertaiment world include some off-beat casting, and some story surprises. Ever since the highly successful revival of "You Can't Take It With You" on Broadway, producers' thoughts have been turning more and more to the once-popular comedies and musicals of the forties.

George Sanders will make his Broadway bow in "Dinner With Sherry," the musical version of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Tentatively named to costar is Marilyn Maxwell.

MARLON BRANDO will take over the role the late Montgomery Clift was to have played opposite Elizabeth Taylor in "Reflections in a Golden Eye," based on Carson McCullers' novella. Shooting will take place in Long Island, Manhattan, and Italy.

John Huston, no slouch at difficult assignments, will hold the reins on this initial teaming of Taylor and Brando. The oft - reported temperamental star (Brando) clashed with his most recent co-star, Sophia Loren, during filming on Chaplin's "The Countess of Hong Kong" so this assignment may also have its ups and downs.

FRED ASTAIRE will play the part of Finian in the film version of "Finian's Rainbow," which has been acquired by various film companies seeking the property.

The musical had more than 600 performances during the 1947-48 Broadway run. The original authors E. Y. Harburg and Fred Saidy will collaborate on the screenplay. Burton Lane will adapt his musical score for the screen.

THE BIGGEST NEWS from the film front seems to be coming out of Warner Bros., offices, but not all of it is good. Although the W.B. label will be on "Reflections in a Golden Eye" and "Finian's Rainbow," the studio will be losing two performers upon completion of "Triple Cross," now filming in Europe.

Actor Gert Frobe and actress Romy Schneider will both retire from acting.

Miss Schneider, who's married to producer-actor Harry Meyen, said she'll return to Berlin and concentrate on stage roles. The 53-year-old Frobe says he and his journalist wife, Beate Bach, want to relax.

The Book Shelf

'Use of Old Cannonballs'

Samuel Chandler

"HOW to Use Old Cannonballs" by David B. Van Dommelen—here is a book that goes beyond conventional techniques of house decoration to provide the homemaker with creative ideas and sources for the designing of unique arrangements. The cliches of traditional flower arranging are absent from this volume. In there place are suggestions that are as new as tomorrow.

The suggestions are based on the assumption that no material, no arrangement is too avant garde for the American home.

So, the author suggests, for example, create a coffee table arrangement by shaping chicken wire over an antique bowl and cover it with eggs, strawberries and weeds—or take an old rusty gallon can; remove the top and the bottom and place a few branches through it and hang it on the patio. It will, the author promises, make a fascinating conversation piece.

Van Dommelen contends that those things that add individual character to a home are the objects that reveal the personalities and tastes of the occupants. "Beautiful art objects, furniture, and architecture, cannot by themselves make a beautiful home. Without the inventiveness of the homemaker, the interior of the house will be drab."

HE FURTHER argues that it is not necessary to purchase expensive objects for a colorful home. Household fruits and vegetables arranged in unique displays add beauty to the home for a few pennies.

"Cabbages, onions, potatoes, rice, and dried beans are only a few of the many things that can be gleaned frm the kitchen and pantry for arrangement purposes."

Try this one: sprinkle coffee beans or navy beans on a table or a shelf as a nesting place for a single potato or for colorful fruit.

Or this one: put down a checkered cloth, a few potatoes, a head of lettuce or cabbage and top it all off with celery in a pitcher or a vase.

"Your neighbor will think you are astounding," Van Deommelen promises.

Decorating the space around a fireplace occupies one whole chapter. The author writes, "Fireplaces are the most misused and most poorly decorated parts of almost every house." The fireplace should never be the center of a stereotyped, lifeless group of objects, "It should be a place to which the eye is drawn because of the uniqueness of the grouping of the objects on the mantel and around it."

AMONG the suggestions for the fireplace are these: place a painting or picture off-center above the mantel, then add a carnival glass containing an arrangement of colored glass balls (even colored eggs) and dried weeds; hang a single branch above the fireplace so the branch contrasts with the background; make the objects reflect a different period than the fireplace and mantel. There are ten other suggestions.

Chapters three and four urge that the decorations for holidays and special days should reflect the spirit of the occasion. Too much decoration should be avoided like a plague.

As an example, a cake for a child's birthday can become a centerpiece if it is cut in squares and decorated as toy blocks with toy cars and dolls placed around them.

Of his book, "New Uses for Old Cannonballs," Mr. Van Dommelen writes, "It is not necessary to be an experienced artist to use the ideas in this book, but it is necessary to be willing to explore, to live, and to breathe the fresh air of creating."

Better Business

'Scam Racket'— Growing Fraud

Lorene Beasley

The "Scam racket" is the newest and fatest growing fraud. The operation, whose name comes from a carnival term meaning "to fleece the public," has already cost legitimate business over $60 million.

The racket, which was formerly used by free-lance confidence men, started in our large cities, but because of recent Federal investigations, the professional crime syndicates in control are moving into the small towns.

THE Wall Street Journal in a study of "fraudulent failures" presented several cases of Scam now under investigation by the Justice Department. The operators follow the same pattern. They move in to a city and set up what appears to be a legitimate business. A large amount of merchandise is ordered on credit and sold on a fast and stictly cash basis. They go "bankrupt" and creditors are left out in the cold.

In the midwest case, three men bought out a "hole-in-the-wall" furniture store. Using the former owner's credit rating, they bought $125,000 worth of furniture and appliances.

THE wholesaler was not informed of a change in ownership but became suspicious when his dunning letters were ignored and began an investigation. He was informed by the new owners that they were bankrupt. As no records were found proving otherwise and no trace of the merchandise located, they have a good chance of going free unless it can be proved that the men had violated Federal bankruptcy laws, by hiding assets or some other fraud.

Another "scam" case was reported by the Wall Street Journal. A promoter took over the corporate shell of a lumber firm by buying out the capital stock for a small amount. He then proceeded to set up creditors by making small purchases for cash. The big deal came on a Saturday when he ordered $12,000 worth of door units and trimming from a lumber wholesaler.

THE wholesaler put through a credit check on the customer the following Monday morning.

The customer phoned in Monday morning saying that he needed some of the supplies immediately and was sending a truck in to pick up whatever was available. About $5,000 worth of merchandise was loaded on the truck and then, quoting the merchant; "Figured he was going across town, instead he drove about 15 feet, stopped the truck and began tarping it down for a 100-mile trip.

We suspected we had been had, but we couldn't legally prove anything until his bill became due a month later. By then he claimed bankruptcy."

BETTER Business Bureau warns that a sudden acceleration of orders from little-known firms for immediate delivery may mean a swindler is trying to hasten the supplier into making a perfunctory credit check.

T. N. Set for Colts

Winner Over Oceana

By DON GRIERSON
Post Sports Writer

Coach Bob Fisher's Terra Nova eleven, fresh from a 51-0 rout over Oceana, will meet a more formidable opponent Friday when they take on El Camino at South San Francisco.

Terra Nova is currently at 2-1 in league play and 4-2 overall, while El Camino has a 2-0 league-play record, and 2-3 overall, having lost all three of their practice games.

Last week, Terra Nova dealt Oceana High School's winless eleven their fourth loss of the season in a Friday afternoon rout that started off with the recovery of an end zone fumble by end Mike Ward two minutes into the first period.

Oceana received the opening kick-off, couldn't move, and fumbled the ball on a punt attempt.

Terra Nova scored again a few plays later on a 76-yard punt return by safety Clancy Smith, and racked up a third touchdown in the closing moments of the first quarter on a 70-yard punt return by halfback Jim Boners.

Bonner scored again early in the second quarter on a reverse play from 24 yards out. Smith ran another punt back before the second period was over, this time for 40 yards, and Don Henkel kicked the extra point, bringing the tally sheet to 32-0 at halftime.

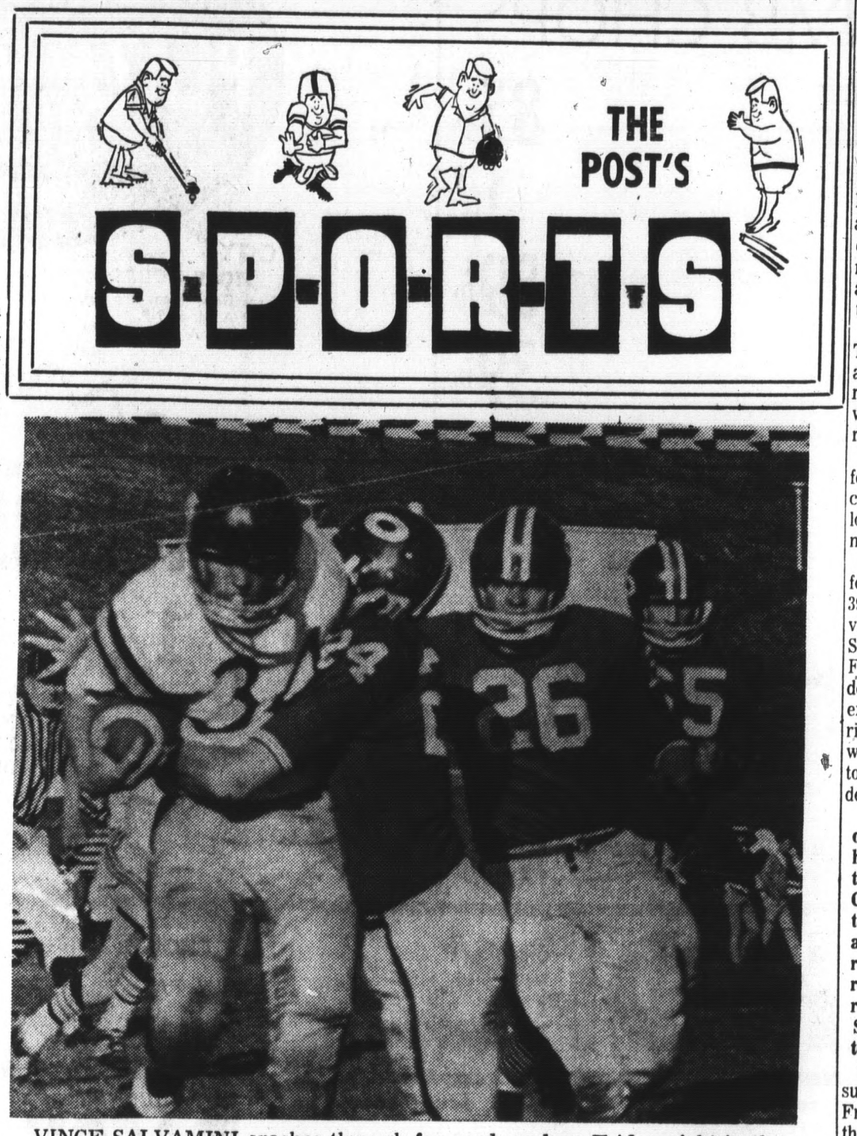
In the third quarter, Smith scored his third TD of the game on a 38-yard reverse, and Vince Salvenini went in for a score from two yards out. Henkel again kicked the conversion.

Tackle Jim Sukosky picked up a fumble and charged into the end zone late in the final period, scoring from 20 yards out to post the last tally of the game.

Jim Bonner led the yardage-gained column with 98 yards for 12 carries. Smith had 48 yards for three carries. Jess Bonner picked up 41 yards in seven carries and Vince Salvenini posted 13 yards with seven carries.

Gary Topolinski picked up 11 yards, Bob Wimmer four yards, Dave Achziger ten yards, Dale Martin seven yards, Larry Crass one yard and Henkel two yards.

Oceana Will play Jefferson Saturday at the Jefferson High School Stadium. The game begins at 11 a.m.



VINCE SALVAMINI crashes through for good yardage Friday night in the clash between Terra Nova and Oceana. Terra Nova proved the stronger of Pacifica's prep squads, defeating Oceana 51-0.

S.F.F. Routs Jeff Hi Soph-Frosh

A powerful South San Francisco Frosh-Soph team smashed the Jefferson junior gridders, 25-6, last week. The Warriors were too strong for Jeff, and rolled up a score of 19-0 during the first half.

In the second half, the Colts literally "got off the ground" in what looked like a comeback in the air, but the passing attack also foundered after carryig the Jeff eleven 94 yards.

Late in the final quarter, Tom Catolina passed to Gus Axiak to set up the only Jeff touchdown of the day. The touchdown came a few plays later on a pass of Bruce Bjoring.

Ed Moura and Bruce Bjoring were outstanding in defense, tallying five unassisted tackles each, and Ron Hacket and Tony Moss were also in evidence with four and three tackles each. Bjoring also intercepted a key pass.

Outstanding offinsive players were quarterback Tom Catolina and end Gus Axiak.

Warriors Beat Jeff High Indians

Unbeaten South San Francisco High School meets oft-defeated Half Moon Bay next week, fresh from the twenty-fourth straight Warrior victory. To make the contest even more one-sided, this will be a home game for the South San Francisco powerhouse.

The Jefferson High School Indians, back from a trouncing at the hands of South San Francisco last Friday, are favored to make a comeback this week against a battered Oceana team.

Oceana fell to the superior Terra Nova Tigers last week in a lopsided 51-0 Friday afternoon tilt. The Oceana team is winless thus far, with an 0-4-1 record.

Gregg Jones was last year's football hero at South San Francisco High School. This year, it looks like it's going to be a lad named Vince Olson.

Olson used his arm and his foot to lead the Warriors to a 39-13 North Peninsula League victory over Jefferson High School at South San Francisco Friday. He threw two touchdown passes and booted three extra points to help the Warriors post their second league win in as many games. The victory extended the Warriors undefeated string to 24 games.

Olson, who completed seven out of 11 tosses for 165 yards, had plenty of help from his tammates. Halfback Russ Cottrell scored a pair of touchdowns—one on a pass and another on a run—and rushed for 127 yards in 15 carries. Olson's understudy Larry Alsterlind and end Alex Smith teamed up for two touchdown passes.

The Warriors' defense got the supreme test, too, as South San Francisco lost four fumbles in the first half—three in the first period—including the opening kickoff. South San Francisco's defense still held the Jeffs scoreless in the first half while the offense mustered 14 points.

Westmoor Set For Mills Hi This Friday

Westmoor meets Mills High School in Millbrae this week, following up a rout over Half Moon Bay last Friday.

Westmoor High School doesn't meet defending North Peninsula League champion South San Francisco High School until November 4, but the Rams look like they might be ready to play the tough Warriors tomorrow.

Westmoor scored 13 points in each of the last two periods to come from behind a 13-6 halftime score and whip Half Moon Bay High School, 32-13, on the Coastside yesterday.

Marty Greenwood and Dave Dotur provided most of the offensive punch for the Rams, rolling up 195 yards of Westmoor's total 226 yards gained rushing. Greenwood tallied a pair of touchdowns on runs of two and four yards and Dotur got one on another four-yard smash.

Fumbles by both teams put a crimp on their offensive efforts—the both lost three fumbles — and it was another miscue that led to the game's most spectacular touchdown.

Defensive end John Anderson charged through the Half Moon Bay defensive line and picked off quarterback Jerry Mullins handoff, then raced 49 yards to Westmoor's final touchdown.

Westmoor also scored on a 23-yard run by Bruce Russell and a six-yard run by Grady Proctor.

Russell's 23-yard run gave Westmoor a 6-0 quarter lead, but the Cougars went ahead, 7-6, in the second period on a six-yard run by Mullins and Giacomino's conversion run.

Cap Meeting Tough Aragon

By TONY BEST
Post Correspondent

Capuchino will meet a potent Aragon High eleven Friday in a televised game at home, beginning at 3 p.m. Aragon is fresh from a 24-7 victory over Serra, while the Mustanges routed Crestmoor last Friday.

Capuchino High School may have its troubles holding on to the football but the Mustangs still win.

The 'Tangs fumbled the ball eight times en route to a 26-6 victory over an outclassed Crestmoor High School team at Burlingame Friday night. With the victory, Capuchino remained undefeated in Mid-Peninsula League play and took another step toward the crown.

Most of the 'Tang blunders came in the first half when they fumbled seven times and lost the ball four times. Capuchino also lost the ball once on an interception while deep in Falcon territory.

However, with all the Capuchino miscues, the 'Tangs had little problem in moving to a 20-0 halftime bulge. Dan Mahle started the scoring when he took a Falcon punt and weaved his way 42 yards to paydirt.

The 'Tangs scored again in the initial period with just seven

IF there was one consolation for those local football fans who like to see Northern California football teams beat Southern California football teams and as a consequence were startled over San Jose State's substantial licking at the hands of San Diego State . . . at least it was a Daly City boy who beat the Spartans.

San Diego's head defensive coach is John Madden, a 1954 graduate of Jefferson High, where he caught on the baseball team and played tackle on the football team. He later starred in the line at Cal Poly, and then went into coaching.

Don Correll, San Diego State's head coach, knew that the only chance his team had of whipping San Jose State would be to stop their great passer, Danny Holman, who was at the time the nation's leader in total offense. So he put the problem in Madden's lap and told him to go to it.

Madden's basic answer was so simple that even we can understand it. San Diego scouting reports on the Spartans showed that every time Holman rolled out to pass, he rolled to San Jose's weak side. So all Madden did, in effect, was over-shift the defense to San Jose's weak side, which meant—and this would be simpler to explain if we had space for X's and O's—that Holman was always going to be one man short on protection. The weak side linebacker continually blitzed, and Holman ended up with minus three yards total offense.

Of course, it wasn't quite that simple, because then there had to be defenses devised for the time when Holman and his coaches would wake up to what San Diego was doing and start dropping straight back or rolling to the strong side, and all this got too technical for us, except that we know it worked.

BUT IT all started with a simple shifting over of the defense, and that unglued Holman. Naturally, it was pointed out, no tricky defense is any good unless the horses execute properly, and San Diego certainly had the horses who could properly execute.

Correll, incidentally, is the man credited with inventing the I Formation (upon which Notre Dame capitalized), which amounts to nothing much more than lining the running backs up in a column instead of side-by-side.

The reason for the "I" was very practical. It was devised when Correll realized that he had one slow running back and one fast running back, and knew that if he continued running them side-by-side that the opposition could over-compensate by putting their good pursuit men on the side where the fast man would be most likely to run, i.e., the side on which he was stationed, and you get the idea.

By lining them up in a column, there would be no way to predict on which side either of them might hit, and there could therefore be no over-compensating.

HOW OFTEN have you heard a sports buff say Gee, he was a natural but for some reason he just never developed.

The fact that he was a natural may be exactly why he never developed. And the reason why isn't really so mysterious. Say you're a coach with a kid who's, to use the correct parlance, fast as a deer. If he's a baseball player, you're not going to spend as much time with him teaching him to properly judge fly balls or run bases as you will with a slower kid, because you figure the speedy boy will be able to out-run his mistakes but that the slower boy will have no margin for error.

As a consequence, it's often the kids who aren't the naturals who eventually develop into outstanding athletes not only because of the well-known psychological phenomena that they know they must work harder for it and they are therefore more studious and sincere, but also simply because they have been more conscientiously coached.

NOW that they're showing fights on television again—even if it is only from Los Angeles—it might be appropriate to discuss the sport.

Since there isn't much on the hoof to write about, a philosophical thought catches our imagination, the thought being, when does a fighter KNOW that he's no longer a contender, no longer a guy with a glamorous future, but just a pro, an opponent, as they say.

The feeling must come when a fighter has been beaten easily by an opponent against whom he knows he's fought his best. It must be a rude awakening. This must be the point where he decides either to retire or stick around as long as he can for as much money as he can squeeze out of the business, headlines or not.

Another observation you might make when watching those televised fights. Most winning fighters usually have perhaps only three or four really good rounds. The other rounds they win not so much because they're good, but because their opponent is bad.

LOCAL NOTES:

Terra Nova's championship hopes may have been shattered in their recent loss to South City, but if they don't have an All-NPL back in little Jim Bonner there just aren't any other ones around.

Bonner's consistently been among Northern California's top ten rushers, and when the Tigers played powerful Salesian earlier in the season, Bonner outdistanced the fabled Stan Brown, gaining 159 yards on 14 carries, as against Brown's 21 carries and 122 yards.

Letter writer Ed Cavagnaro, who's still thinking about baseball, agees with us—among other things—that pitchers are more effective nowadays because of the chronic first ball hitting of many of the big swingers who insist on pulling the ball or nothing at all. We mention Mr. Cavagnaro's comments just to prove that there are people still interested in baseball in the fall, and above all, to prove that there's at least one person in the world agrees with us.

Glad to see that San Francisco State College is finally sponsoring a class in self-defense which does not—like Karate—teach to kill.

Jeff Wilber, a designs art major, is organizing an Aikido club. Aikido, sometimes referred to as Zen Combat, is a sort of combination of judo and jujitsu, is very graceful, artistic, and above all is strictly a defensive form of the martial arts.

It's likened to Zen because unlike other forms of "self-defense" which teach to attack, it attemps to instill a method of not opposing but receiving the attacker's force and a method of not opposing but receiving the attacker's force and redirecting it.

Best of all, the club's head instructor is qualified to teach. He's Kenichi Suzuki, a second degree black belt in Aikido who studied for seven years at Aikido headquarters in Japan under the guidance of the "father" of Aikido, Morihei Uyeshiba.

Westmoor And El Camino 10's And 20's to Clash

Hoping to repaiar their win over the El Camino Colts, the Westmoor Ram 10's and 20's quintets gird for battle on their home court tomorrow at 3 p.m.

The Westmoor gymnasium was the scene for both gloom and happiness last Thursday as the 110's lost to the Jefferson Indians 26-24, while the 120's, avenging their previous loss to the Indians, trounced Jeff 37-26.

Oceana's basketball court was a good one for the Westmoor 10's and 20's on October 18 as they vanquished the Sharks in both contests. A ten point margin of victory was secured by Coach Byron Van Alstyne's 10's with the score of 39-29, while Coach Tony Giammona's 20's had an 8 point margin in their 48-40 win.

In the Jeff game the Ram 10's lost out in the last quarter when they tallied only two points to Jeff's five points. Although the Rams were behind the first two quarters with a nine point spree in the third quarter spearheaded by the teamwork of Steve Gilmore and Mike Brown and Sid Smith, they led the Indians by one point at the end of the third quarter.

With Gilmore feeding the ball to high point men Smith, outside the key, and Brown, under the backboard, both boys tallied seven points apiece.

A perfect foul shooting day helped the Indians 10 team to their margin of victory, as Orlich's boys connected six for six.

High point man for Jeff was Schroh with 10 points, followed by Masangray with six tallies.

Seeking revenge for their previous 48-44 loss, the Ram 20's team forged ahead in the first quarter for 10 points and maintained their lead through all the following quarters. At halftime the Rams led the Indians 22-14, and the second half saw the Rams add 16 more points, while Jeff could only add 12.

Again the Indians demonstrated perfect foul shooting as Mic Kelley's boys had six for six while Tony Giammona's boys made nine out of 12 on the free throw line. Although the Indians had a better record on foul shooting, it was the Rams who controlled the game, as they forced the opposition to play their type of slow, deliberate game.

It was the first game in which Joel Lesser started for the Rams and Coach Gimmona commented that he was as impressed by his playing as he was by Ken Duart high point man with 12 tallies. Golden led the Indian scoring with 11.

In the Oceana contests good hustling and good team effort by the Rams made the difference in the score in the 10's game. Leading scorers for Westmoor were Steve Gilmore with 13 points and Sid Smith with 10 points. Knocking in nine was Oceana's George Minnino.

The 20's game started slow as both teams played flawless defense and the score was 7-5 after the first quarter. Then Westmoor, behind the 23 points performance of Ken Duart, broke into the open in the second and third quarter and Oceana was never back in the game.

Thunderbolts Shut Out Olympia School Raiders

The Thunderbolts were led by Chuck Davis, Ralph Sands, and Mike Zawilski offensively while Robin Green intercepted four passes to spark the defensive unit. Bill Matucci, Ray Restivo, Pat O'Gurman, and Mark Merced were all outstanding for the Raiders.

The Vista Mar Crusaders launched their football season with an 8-6 victory over the tough Daniel Webster Long Bombs. Vista Mar scored in the first quarter when quarterback Jim McCarthy completed a touchdown pass to end Brian MacNamara.

Vista Mar then made the important conversion which proved to be the decider. Other outstanding players for Vista Mar were Larry Hiner, Craig Napp, and Mike Montes. Leading the Long Bomb attack were Kenny Urrutia, who scored the lone touchdown, and Mark Hubenak.

The Westlake School 49ers jumped into the winner's column as they defeated the Abraham Lincoln Rebels 22-6 behind the two touchdown passes of quarterback Joe Buono. Doing an outstanding job defensively for the 49ers were Mike Hartnete, Ron Cipro, and Mark Cuniberti.

Hofbrau Is Slow-Pitch LeagueChamp

The Daly City Recreation Department conducted Late Summer Adult Slow Pitch Softball Championships last week at Westlake Park. Meeting in the semi-finals were Thompson's Tornadoes, Marchbanks League Champs, and the Odd Fellows, Colma League champs.

The Odd Fellows took an early lead as they scored five runs in the first inning but felt the sting of the Tornado team in the third inning when Thompson's rallied for seven runs. The Tornadoes came to life after the third inning as ace rightfielder "Golden Glove" Jim Wyatt, assistant team manger, came in to give his team impetus. The Tornadoes followed with 10 more runs and went on to win the game, 17-5.

In the championship game the Westlake League champions, Starlite Hofbrau, took the Daly City Championship with little trouble as they pounded out a 10-5 win over the Tornadoes. The Hofbrau was paced by Dan Emmett, Ray Fontana, Dave Rasmussen, Denny Alsterlind, and Kray Hensely.

Outstanding performances for the Tornadoes were turned in by Frank Strazzulo, Dick Hanlon, Fred Belluomini, and Lou DeSalvatore.

The Monkeys opened up the second half with a 40-yard touchdown pass from Joe McKenna to Paul Kenny but the extra point failed. Westmoor tied the game as John Roy fired a 35-yard touchdown pass to Mark Vidak.

El Camino Outclassed

By GARRY WHITE
Post Correspondent

Gary Trono, a pint-sized halfback from Marin County's Terra Linda High School has proved that big things do indeed come in small packages.

Trono, a former South San Francisco resident who would have been a sophomore at El Camino High if he had stayed in the district, applied the final "coupe de grace" as Terra Linda trounced the Colts, 33-0, in a non-league affair at South SF's Clifford Field.

The 120-pound sophomore concluded the parade of Trojan touchdowns in the third period when he gobbled in a punt on his own 42-yard stripe and scampered 58 yards for the score.

It was Terra Linda's fourth victory in five starts, while Camino suffered its third practice league loss. The Colts, who are tied for the North Peninsula League lead with a 2-0 mark, have yet to win a practice game this season

Colts Outclassed

The powerful Trojans, co-favorites in the tough Marin County League race, moved the ball at will against the scrappy, but outclassed Colts, tabulating 333 yards on the ground.

The Trojans broke the game wide open at the outset of the second period when they exploded for two touchdowns in less than three minutes.

Paul Lee personally accounted for the first two scores against the Colts. The Trojan back dashed 15 yards through the center of the line to score the game's initial touchdown and then came back moments later, following an interception, to cut through the right side of the Colts' defense and scamper 65 yards with a dazzling scoring run.

The Terra Linda reserves took over in the final seconds of the first half and moved the ball 35 yards in nine plays, allowing the visitors to take a 20-0 lead off of the field at halftime.

Camino's only scoring threat came late in the fourth quarter when the Colts, led by the bull-like rushes of fullback John Castellanos, moved the ball down to the Terra Linda 13-yard line.

However, on fourth down the Camino team missed a field goal and the drive died.

Bruno's Jets Defeated By Santa Clara

The San Bruno Jets lost to Santa Clara, 14-0, in Pop Warner League football last week.

The Jets fumbled four times inside the Santa Clara 25-yard line, and still managed to hold the powerful midget team to a 0-0 stalemate at halftime.

The Jets gained 276 yards, Santa Clara 106.

But the Jets fumbling proved crucial, with Santa Clara scoring twice in the last quarter after the Jets dropped the ball, once on their 45 and once on their own 20.

Jet Coach Ray Monteroso praised his defensive team, sparked by Dennis Yamaoto, Tim Casey, Al West and Ernie Ribera, and attributed the loss almost entirely to fumbles.

The Jets have been picked as one of the teams to play in the Annual Joe Lacy Bowl Saturday morning in the first of three games which begins at 10:30 a.m.

S.S.F. School District Receives Federal Grant

South San Francisco Unified School District was among recipients of state and federal grants totaling $897,294 for compensatory education programs in San Mateo County were announced today by Senator Richard J. Dolwig (R-San Mateo County).

Senator Dolwig said the grants, recently approved by the State Board of Education, are for 1966-67 special programs designed to raise the educational achievements of children from disadvantaged backgrounds.

"These programs have been developed to meet the special needs of youngsters from low-income families," the Senator declared.

The largest total amount goes to Ravenswood School District in East Palo Alto. That district will receive federal and state funds totaling $363,127.

The federal allocation to Ravenswood amounts to $303,744 and the grant was made under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Ravenswood's Child Care Center, which is administered by the School District, will receive $32,383 in state funds for its pre-school program. The center provides low cost child care for working parents.

Senator Dolwig said the State Board of Education approved Federal allocations under Title I for Sequoia Union High School District, $137,666; Belmont Elementary, $6,869; Redwood City Schools, $114,726; San Mateo City Schools, $71,684; and South San Francisco Unified School District, $66,364.

Cap, Aragon Tilt Friday

seconds remaining when Jerry Neary hauled in a 36-yard scoring pass from Mike Costanzo to end a 60-yard scoring drive that took six plays.

Capuchino scored again in the second quarter when it recovered a Falcon fumble on the Crestmoor 33-yard line. After a 10-yard pass from Costanzo to Ron Valdez, Mahle skirted right end for 23 yards and the touchdown.

Crestmoor Scores

The lone Crestmoor tally came in the third quarter when Paul Weinberger went 93 yards with an intercepted pass. Weinberger, a defensive end, picked off a flat pass.

The quick score caused Capuchino to bring back its first string and the regulars had a hard time scoring. The "Tangs did not score again till 1:26 remained in the contest.

Capuchino went 65 yards in nine plays. The big plays were a 20-yard pass to Neary and a 14-yard run by Gary Amadio, who scored the touchdown on a six-yard run.

Sugar... 'n' Spice

By NELL NORTON

RECENTLY I've been busy, busy testing new cookie recipes. This is great fun, for cookies are easy to make and bake and the results of this making and baking are always greeted with glad cries by the family. Plus that cookies go nicely in lunches, for a welcome home snack after school and are just perfect when friends drop by for a cup of tea in the afternoon.

Before I pass on these new recipes I'd like to talk a bit about baking in general . . . cookie-making and baking in particular. Remember, read the recipe through, including the method of mixing, before starting to mix—for all recipes do not call for the same methods of mixing. For example, one usually sifts the dry ingredients together and then adds them to the creamed mixture.

However, if you are using sour milk or buttermilk, and soda, the recipe may suggest that you combine the buttermilk and soda and then add it to the creamed mixture alternately with the sifted dry ingredients.

IT'S a very good idea to get all the ingredients together before you start to mix and fix. Then you won't get half way through a cake and find that you don't have any baking powder, or some such other catastrophy. Also this is a great help in making sure that you don't leave out some ingredient, if they are all right there before your eyes you are not going to forget something.

Measure carefully. Level off the tops of the measuring spoons. If a recipe calls for one teaspoon of soda, it doesn't mean a heaping teaspoon or a hollow teaspoon, but for exactly what it said, "one teaspoon." The same with flour and liquids, measure carefully. The texture and consistency of the baked product will be changed if you change the measurements.

Last but not least—set your oven to the heat indicated in the recipe and let it reach that temperature before you start to bake. Set a timer so you will be sure to remove your cookies from the oven at the right time. It spoils my baking day if I burn a pan of cookies for I know that the savings I would have made in baking them instead of buying them, has gone with the wind (or rather the smoke). So check as you bake.

I HAVE a tempermental oven that lies to me about its heat. So I have learned over the years to make allowances for its sneaky nature. If your oven is honest and true you can go by the temperature and the baking time indicated in the recipe.

Are you sick and tired of being lectured about baking? Forgive me. I'll go on now to the delicious recipes.

APPLESAUCE-SPICE COOKIES

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
2½ cups flour
1 teas. cinnamon
¼ teas. cloves
½ teas. salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teas. soda
¾ cup unsweetened applesauce
½ cut nuts
1 cup raisins

Cream shortening and sugar together. Beat egg and add to creamed mixture and blend well. Sift together flour, cinnamon, cloves, salt, soda and baking powder. Add alternately with the applesauce to the creamed mixture. Be sure to add flour first and last. Fold in nuts and raisins and drop by teaspoon onto well greased cookie sheet.

Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven (375-degrees). Makes about 2½ dozen large cookies.

CALLING ALL HOMEMAKERS

By Donald C. Waite

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO FURNISH A HOME?

A study was made by a national agency last year, and it showed that the average family spends 20% of the cost of their home for furniture. In other words, the average $20,000 home costs about $4,000 to furnish. This average includes not only furniture but floor coverings, draperies and electrical appliances. . .

Of course, many families go way beyond this average, and many are obliged to spend a lot less. Actually the amount of money you spend will never take the place of good taste..

We have all seen homes which were furnished for $1,500 and done more attractively and imaginatively than others on which two or three times as much was spent. That's where a reliable furniture dealer who employes good salesmen-decorators can be of great help. We invite you to come in and take advantage of our free decorator service. We can help you select the furniture that will be both comfortable and attractive in your home whether you are working with a big budget or a small one.

Our decorators, here at Sterling Furniture in Westlake Shopping Center are at your service no matter what your decorating problem may be. We are open Wednesday and Friday evenings til 9 p.m. for your shopping convenience.

THE PURE WHITE lily-flowered tulip "White Triumphator" again finds a coveted place on the 1966 International Holland Bulb selections list. Bulbs on this list are selected by visitors to the famous Keukenhof Bulb Gardens in Lisse, Holland. This tulip does particularly well in Peninsula gardens.

Bulbs Add Color To Gardens

By IVA NEWMAN

Were you one of the many lucky Peninsula gardeners to visit the Keukenhof bulb gardens in Lisse, Holland, this past spring? If you were you probably helped to select the "most admired" bulbs for 1966.

It would be a monumental task for the Holland bulb growers to select a handful of "Favorites" from the many thousands of varieties of spring-flowering varieties grown in Holland. So, the Holland bulb growers leave the selection of the most outstanding blossoms to the gardeners of the world who annually trek through keukenhof, world's largest bulb garden, by the hundreds of thousands. A poll of these visitors is made to determine which varieties are most admired. This list is then proclaimed the "International Holland Bulb Selections."

The Jefferson Scene

By Lauri Sarubbi

Joe Torrez, Jefferson's student body president, attended Boys' State, a conference on the fundamentals and procedures of government, this past summer.

This conference was held in Sacramento and was one week long. Joe, along with eight hundred boys, slept in a barn, ate good meals, and learned many things about people and government procedure.

At Boys' State, Joe played drums for the Boys' State dance band and participated in intramural sports. He was also elected to the position of supervision of the home country.

Joe declared the trip "most interesting and rewarding."

Also active this summer was Jeff senior Dave Boyer. Dave bought a Yamaha 305 motorcycle last April, and during the summer he made a cross county trip to St. Louis, Missouri. The trip was the most unusual and longest endeavor Dave has ever attempted by motorcycle.

The trip encompassed four days, averaging ten hours of constant riding. The entire trip costed Dave the unimaginably low sum of $30 dollars, this included gas, oil, and incidentals

THE elite group of Jefferson High School is its honor society, the California Scholarship Federation or simply, C.S.F.

The annual C.S.F Tea was just held where all the members have a get-together.

TO qualify for C.S.F. you must acquire ten points from the grades on your report card. An "A" counts three points and a "B" counts one point, but you can receive one extra point from certain activities. Only the solid subjects count—subjects like P.E. typing, etc. do not.

Some of the activities planned for this year are the Tutorial Program which is the C.S.F. members helping the scholastically deficient students of Jefferson. Any student can apply through their couselor or any C.S.F. member. They are planning to take a field trip to the University of San Francisco. Another activity is the elections of the new fall officers this October 25.

Around Westmoor

Hoping to surpass last year's top record of 8,000 pounds of clothes, Westmoor High students have begun gathering clothing for the "Christmas Clothes Drive," which benefits the Goodwill.

Retaining its annual tradition of the clothes drive each Westmoor class has gone into competition, to see who can supply the largest amount of clothes. The classes are awarded points toward the Perpetual Trophy for its participation. Along with the clothes drive is the canned foods drive.

Each year Westmoor has donated clothes to Goodwill, a plaque of recognition has been given by Goodwill, since the clohtes usually arrive at a time when outside donations are low. The arrival of the Westmoor contribution has afforded continued employment at a time when there would have been considerable layoffs. Because of this, Goodwill gave the second "Good Willie" award in its history to Westmoor.

Although the drive is officially in effect from December 5-16, class members begin filling garages and basements with clothes from September on. Most classes wait until the last day to show their strength, therefore a 4 p.m. deadline on December 16 is in effect.

The following Monday the clothes are weighed and the class with the most poundage in relation to class size is the winner of the drive.

Terra Nova Topics

By MARIA MONTENEGRO

"Eight Miles High," TN's Girls' League's ambitiously planned and organized dance, was canceled last week. Scheduled for last Friday night, it would have been the first dance of the school year. Poor ticket sales caused the cancellation.

This might be explained in part by the PSAT testing of juniors and the TN - Cross-Country Invitational early the next day, and another dance locally sponsored on the same night. However, this cancellation follows the pattern of other planned school dances at the end of last school year.

It seems a shame to think that this lack of student support might dim the efforts of other school clubs or classes to attempt to sponsor school dances. This would slim down class and club treasuries as well as the recreational activities made available to students.

TN's junior class encounters and counters the economic needs for senior activities nowadays by selling light bulbs, school pennants, and their latest moneymaker, Hallowe'en candy.

A preview of individual senior expenses will come tomorrow when members of the class line up to put $10 deposits on class rings.

Oh, for the finance-free joys of freshmanhood!

The TN executive board, made up of class presidents and school officers, convened at 7 p.m. last Monday night to journey to the Jefferson Union High School District central office. They met with Supt. Ed Morgan and the school board to discuss student body government affairs at Terra Nova.

Roles have been cast and a full round of rehearsals is under way for the second annual school play. The cast rehearses after school daily and on weekends for performances of "The Crucible," set for December 1, 2, and 3.

Arthur Miller's controversial play deals with the Salem witch trials. It first appeared during the McCarthy trials.

Community Information Series Set

The Nursery Mothers' Council of the San Mateo County YWCA invites all interested residents to participate in its plans for wider knowledge and understanding of community and its resources.

First in a series of informative programs will be held in Daly City November 3, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Westlake Community Baptist Church, Elmwood Drive and Southgate Avenue.

Dr. Phyllis Van Vleet, Director of PACE I.D.—Projects to advance creativity in edudcation—will explain this new San Mateo County project.

Following Dr. Van Vleet's presentation, those who attend will have an opportunity to participate in informal discussion groups conducted by PACE staff.

Discussion will focus on children in relation to their school progress and development.

TEENS

A "Battle of the Bands" has been scheduled by the Pacifica Teen Council for October 28 at Terra Nova High School. The Teen Club Tiki Hut dance will not be held October 21 and 28 in preparation for the "Battle of the Bands."

The Battle of the Bands was moved to Terra Nova due to the limited capacity and stage space of the Tiki Hut. Present members of the Pacifica Teen Club will be admitted for 50 cents and tose without memberships must purchase a $1 membership plus 50 cents admission.

Late registrations are still being taken at the park beach and recreation office for teen and J-teen guitar classes at Oddstad Center, Tuesday evenigs 6:30 to 7:30. Classes are limited to 15 students.

Membership and council applications are being taken at participating schools in the Pacifica area. Membership is 50 cents a year and is limited to seventh and eighth grade students only.

PLENTIFUL BARTLETT PEARS make a delightful open-face pie that tastes so good with mugs of hot, well-brewed coffee.

Fresh Pear Pie Has Been Neglected

Please give fresh pear pie its due

Some of our comprehensive cookbooks neglected it for years; only in their recent editions have they recognized this delicious dessert. Other comprehensive cookbooks still neglect it. But once you taste fresh pear pie you may agree that our plea is justified.

There are all kinds of fresh pear pies. The regular kind with a double crust. The kind with lattice-style pastry. The variety with a streusel-style topping. The sort with a cook-ahead filling.

And this kind. The following recipe yields an open-face pie with hefty slices of fresh pear plus a creamy intertwining. Pears and creamy mixture are turned into an unbaked pie shell; then when the pie comes out of the oven the filling is an interesting combination, the pastry is golden-brown and crisp. (Maybe we should qualify that last phrase: The pastry will be golden-brown and crisp if you use rich enough pie dough.)

Creamy Fresh Pear Pie

- 4 medium large fresh Bartlett pears, ripe but firm
- 5 tablespoons flour
- Grated rind of 1 lemon (1 tablespoon)
- Unbaked pastry shell with a high fluted edge in a nine-inch oven-glass pie plate
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 container (8 ounces) commercial sour cream

Pare pears, halve and core; slice each pear-half into sixths. Sprinkle pears with two tablespoons of the flour and the lemon rind; toss gently. Turn into pie shell.

In a small bowl, stir together the remaining three tablespoons of the flour, the sugar, salt and nutmeg. Gradually stir in the sour cream, keeping smooth; spread over pears.

Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for ten minutes; reduce heat to 375 degeres and continue baking until pears are cooked through and crust is golden-brown — about 45 minutes. Place on a wire cake rack; allow to stand at room temperature until underside of pie plate feels cool before cutting. Or to make pie even a day ahead, refrigerate after cooling; shortly before serving, place in a very hot (500 degrees) oven until just warm through — about ten minutes; this will make pastry taste crisp and fresh and will not affect the texture of the filling.

Note: We found this pie baked successfully on the rack below the center rack of our five-rack oven.

A Country Captain That WillCaptivate

We are constantly asked for our own recipe for a famous dish. Here it is, as we originally contributed it to a cookbook.

Cecily Brownstone's
Country Captain
Steamed Rice Hot Rolls
Tossed Green Salad with
Marinated Artichoke Hearts
Bavarian Cream with Brandied Cherries

CECILY BROWNSTONE'S COUNTRY CAPTAIN

- 1 frying chicken, about 2½ pounds
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 4 to 5 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1-3 cup finely diced onion
- 1-3 cup finely diced green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1½ teaspoons curry powder
- ½ teaspoon dried crushed thyme
- 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons dried currants, washed and drained

Blanched toasted almonds

Have chicken cut so there are 2 pieces of breast, 2 wings, 2 legs, 2 second joints, 2 pieces of bony back. (Wing tips, neck and giblets may be used for stock for another dish.) Wash and clean chicken pieces in cold water; drain. Mix flour, salt and pepper; coat chicken pieces with mixture, rubbing it in where necessary. Heat butter in 10- or 12-inch skillet until very hot, add chicken and brown well on all sides. If 10-inch skillet is used, squeeze in bony back pieces at sides. Start with 4 tablespoons butter and add remaining tablespoon if necessary to brown chicken well or if there are not enough drippings in pan for next step. Remove chicken pieces; add onion, green pepper, garlic, curry powder and thyme to drippings in skillet. Stir over low heat to get up browned particles and cook slightly; add stewed tomatoes, including liquid in can. Return chicken to skillet, skin side up. Cover skillet and cook slowly until tender—20 to 30 minutes. Stir currants into sauce. Serve accompanied by almonds. Makes 4 servings.

Ham 'n' Eggs In a Golden Cheese Sauce

Here's a man's favorite, ham and eggs for lunch. They're all done up in a lovely golden cheese sauce and served on toast.

Ham and Egg Sandwich
with Cheese Sauce
Pickles Olives
Stewed Plums
Tea Milk

Ham and Egg Sandwich with Cheese Sauce

- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard
- 6 thin slices ham
- 6 slices buttered toast
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

Stir soup until smooth in pan; blend in milk and mustard. Heat; stir now and then. Place ham on toast; top with eggs. Pour sauce over. Makes ¾ open-face sandwiches.

Pot Roast Trick

Pot roast in a package is a snap. Place a 3-pound chuck roast of western beef in a roasting pan on sheet of luminum foil. Top with package of onion soup mix and a can of condensed cream of mushroom soup. Loosely wrap foil around meat. Bake at 325 degrees F., about 2* hours.

COOL WEATHER FARE — A big tureen of beef, barley, and vegetable soup. Good!

Get Satisfaction With Own Soup

MOST OF the time, of course, busy mothers use the convenient canned and packaged soups available in such variety in our markets. But once in a while, it's worthwhile capturing the contentment that comes when you brew your own soup.

Contentment? Yes.

A good cook will gain a real sense of satisfaction from this old-fashioned job. And certainly eaters should beam when they taste so delicious a soup-combination as beef, barley and fresh vegetables made from scratch.

Have we persuaded you? Then let's go:

BEEF, BARLEY AND VEGETABLE SOUP

- 1½ pounds shinbeef soup bone (including a good portion of meat)
- 2½ quarts water
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 teaspoons salt (about)
- ¼ teaspoon pepper (about)
- ½ cup regular barley
- 1 cup chopped celery tops
- 1 cup coarsely chopped onion
- 2 cups sliced fresh carrots
- ½ pound snap beans, cut small
- One can (1 pound) tomatoes

Into a large heavy kettle turn the soup bone with its meat, the water, garlic, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer for one hour. Add barley, celery tops and onion; simmer for another hour. Add carrots, green beans and tomatoes (including liquid in can). Continue simmering until vegetables are tender—about 20 minutes. Remove soup bone; cut meat from bone, dice and add to soup. Refrigerate covered until fat hardens on top—about 6 hours or overnight. Remove fat; reheat soup, stirring often to prevent barley sticking to bottom of kettle. Add extra salt and pepper to taste. Makes about 3 quarts.

Notes: If you buy shinbeef bone from which the meat has been detached, buy about 1 pound of this bone and about ¾ pound of extra beef from a cut suitable for soup.

Two kinds of barley—regular and quick-cooking—are available. This soup calls for the former after an hour of cooking, as called for in the recipe, the barley will still be pleasantly chewy. If, however, you like barley softer, cover the ½ cup of regular barley called for with 2 cups of cold water and soak for 1 hour while the soupbone is simmering; then drain the barley and add as directed with the celery and onion.

Leftover Beef Changes Pace Creole Style

Pot-roast, beef stew or a roast of beef usually yields leftovers. What can be done so they come to the table in a second or third day serving, completely different from the first time?

Creole Meat Pie takes that leftover beef and zips it with seasonings of chili powder. Worcestershire sauce and tomatoes. It's sprinkled in a biscuit crust then sprinkled with cheese, then baked.

The use of a lard for biscuit dough gives a flaky product, especially when it's worked into the flour with a pastry blender.

Creole Meat Pie
Biscuit Crust

- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 4 to 6 tablespoons lard
- ⅓ to ½ cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently ½ minute. Pat or roll dough about ¼-inch thick and line a 9-inch pie pan or baking dish. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Creole Filling

- 2 cups cooked cubed beef
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 cup finely sliced celery
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon chili powder
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese

Brown meat, onion and celery in lard or drippings. Stir in flour, seasonings, Worcestershire sauce, tomatoes and green pepper. Mix thoroughly. Cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour into biscuit crust an dsprinkle with grated cheese. Place under broiler just long enough for cheese to melt. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Easy Curry With Leftover Lamb Roast

You don't need a special recipe to make Curry Sauce for Lamb which you've sliced from the leftover roast. Use the same proportions as you would for medium white sauce (2 tablespoons lard or drippings, an equal amount of flour). With this you need beef bouillon (2 cups) substituted for the milk. The curry is left for your own taste, ½ to 1 teaspoon.

The method's simple, too. Simly melt the lard or drippings, stir in flour to a smooth paste, then add the liquid, stirring constantly and cook until smooth or thickened. Heighten the seasoning with salt (¼ teaspoon) and pepper (⅛ teaspoon).

Can you think of an easier way to heat thin, tender slices of lamb? Serve on hot fluffy rice or noodles.

Interesting Facts and History of Sardines Explained By a Food Consultant

By ELIZABETH ALSTON
Food Consultant

According to U.S. law the word "sardine" on a can label may describe certain small fish, including sprats, herrings and pilchards. According to Food Inspection Decision 64 of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, any small clupeoid (herring-like) fish may be canned as sardines provided the label also bears the name of the country or state in which the fish are taken and prepared.

The Atlantic herring is found from southern France to northern Norway in Europe; on the eastern shore of North America, from Delaware to Newfoundland, Canada. It is caught and made use of at almost every stage of its life. According to the stage of its growth it is called small or young herring, sild, fat herring, lean herring and spent herring. Young, small and sild herring are canned as sardines. Some members of the herring family live exclusively in salt water, some in fresh, while others live alternatively in sea and streams.

Maine sardines are a species of Atlantic herring. They can be identified by a patch of teeth on the roof of the mouth; no other Atlantic coast fish is so distinguished.

Sild sardines are herrings at a particularly delicious stage of growth. They are caught in Atlantic and North Sea waters and are packed by Norwegians and Danes.

The sprat family's most famous member is the brisling, caught and packed by the Norwegians, Danes and British. Many fish experts regard the brisling as the world's best sardine. It is one of the smallest of the herring species, 9 to 12 centimeters long. Its scales are larger than those of the young Atlantic herring and it is further distinguished from that herring by a sharp edge on its belly—which led one expert to say he could tell a Brisling with his eyes closed!

No one knows where brisling come from, but each year in late May or early June, schools of brisling reach into fjords and inlets to feed on the rich currents of plankton to be found there at that time. Brislings are caught in light summer nights. Young brisling are too small to catch and spawning brisling can't be found in great enough quantity to make the work worth while. Thus the Brisling are caught when they are fattest and best to eat, when they are from one to two years old.

The pilchard-sardine is caught in Atlantic waters off of Spain, Portugal and Morocco. This herring-like fish was the first to be called "sardine" because it was caught in great quantities off the coast of Sardinia, an Italian island in the Mediterranean Sea. Thus, on Portuguese labels the description "true sardines" or "genuine sardines" will often be found. The British agree with the Portuguese and do not allow sild, sprats or brisling to be called "sardines."

Sardine fishing dates back hundreds of years. It was an important industry in the earliest part of the fifteenth century and the fish were eaten fresh or preserved in brine or oil. The invention of canning and the improvement of canning methods, together with the extension of railroads to fishing ports really started the canned sardine industry as it is known today.

The Maine sardine business began in 1875, preceded by 6-7 years experimental work. Fresh sardines are extremely delicate and cannot be sent long distances. They are eaten fresh (simply grilled or fried) on the Mediterranean and other coasts where they are caught. Fresh sardines can occasionally be bought in large eastern cities.

CANNING

Sardines are prepared in many different ways which vary from country to country and even from packer to packer. But all packers treat the fish in some way to lower the moisture content about 10 per cent before packing them in oil or sauce. The fish may be dried at 110 degrees for about an hour. Or they may be steamed with brine to firm the flesh and reduce the moisture.

Some packers bake the fish briefly in an oven; others pack the raw fish into cans, put them into a steam chamber for half an hour, then drain them before adding oil. Brisling however, are always smoked. The fish are threaded through the head with thin steel rods and then placed in smoking frames. About one hour in oak wood smoke makes them crisp as bacon, but their pliability is restored in oil.

SAUCE

Sardines come packed in many different oils and sauces which is one reason why it is so interesting to try different kinds from different countries.

Scandinavian packers use olive oil, sild oil and soybean oil. Sild oil is obtained from sild-sardines by a reduction process.

The Portuguese pack three varieties of sardines: skinless and boneless (sometimes written "sans peau et arete"), boneless, and plain. The fluid in Portuguese cans is usually olive oil. A piquant (spiced) sauce is sometimes used, but Portuguese law forbids tomato sauce for local distribution and sale. The spaniards pack with oil and with tomato sauce. The Italians include sardines in many of their antipasti; they also pack in tomato or mustard sauce and in olive oils, mainly those from Liguria, Tuscany and Puglia.

Maine packers use soybean, peanut, cottonseed and olive oils, but also pack in mustard and tomato sauces.

The French pack sardines in olive oil. They pack sprats in oil, or tomato sauce or in olive oil seasoned with herbs and spices such as bay leaf, clove and pimiento.

The Danes pack brisling in tomato sauce, olive oil, sardine oil, sherry wine, garlic, mustard sauce, curry sauce and chili sauce. They pack smoked sprats in mustard and oil. The Danes also pack a very popular Kosher sardine, under rabbinical supervision.

Russian sprats can be found in some stores, while lots of sardines come to America from Morocco, Japan, Yugoslavia and even South Africa.

THE SARDINE CAN

The traditional European sardine can is taller and holds 4⅜ ounces net weight. It packs better, is cheaper to pack and permits a cheaper cost price. Portuguese packers sell almost $3 million worth of the European can size as against only $¼ million of the American low flat can. The flat can requires much hand work. A flat can packer needs two or three times as much time to fill his can compared with the larger can.

The traditional European sardine can holds 4⅜ oz. net compared with the American can which holds only 3¾ oz. net. The European can is called the "club size" by packers; the American is called the "Dingley" after Nelson Dingley, a congressman and one-time governor of Maine.

The "Dingley" is more expensive to pack than the "club" size. It requires morehand work and takes more time. A "club" packer can fill two and even three cans for every one packed by a "Dingley" packer. The "club" size packs better and outsells the "Dingley" in Europe 5 to 1. Portuguese packers sell almost $3 million worth of "club" size cans of sardines compared with only $¼ million of the "Dingley" cans.

The "Dingley" can was invented by the French in order to evade U.S. tariff laws. Nelson Dingley, as chairman of the Ways and Means Committe, drafted a bill imposing higher duties on imported sardines. The law was so worded that it described the European can size. Congress passed the bill in 1897.

HOW TO TASTE

Open the can and let it air briefly. Smell the contents. There should be a good fish odor, a clean oil odor.

Pour the oil from the can onto a clean white plate. If water bubbles appear the fish was not dried properly. The oil ought to be clear and free of fish debris. "Dirty" oil may be a sign of slovenly packing.

The taste should blend oil, fish oil and fish juices. The texture should be clean and firm without being dry. Many experts regard "plain" sardines as superior to skinless and boneless because the latter tend to be dry. The skin and bones add flavor of their own, along with character. Fish that has been overcooked during processing tastes "mealy" and lean, grainy fish taste "wintry."

Many things affect the flavor of a sardine. The time of year and where it was caught. The time allowed to elapse before caning, the type of oil used and, very important, the age of the canned product.

Could Training Table Endanger Health of School Athletes?

The health of many high school athletes is being endangered by the training programs of some of today's coaches, according to nutritionists at the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Chicago.

"Extreme care is exercised in providing protective equipment to prevent injuries and prompt medical care when injuries do occur—so there is no doubt that the coaches and athletic directors and the school administrators are sincerely interested in the welfare of their athletes," said Frances Hall, meat board nutritionist and dietitian. "Unfortunately, many coaches, while protecting their athletes from physical contact injury, are, at the same time, inadvertently putting them very much in harm's way by unsound dietary regimens aimed at manipulating the weight of teen-agers.

"Some football players are gorged with calorie-loaded, complete-unbalanced diets to get them up to a certain weight. Other athletes, such as wrestlers, are put on unusual diets to keep them within a certain weight range over a long period of time; and still others are manipulated downward to a certain weight.

"This is particularly dangerous with high school athletes—as opposed, for instance, to professional football players—because they are still in the growing process. There should be no dietary tampering with the delicate mechanisms of bone, muscle and tissue development during this crucial period when the young person is growing from childhood through adolescence to adulthood. Attempts to move an athlete's weight around to fit the needs of various seasonal sports can critically impair the physical fitness and future health and well-being of the young people involved.

"Not only do such weight manipulations interfere with normal growth and development but there is strong medical evidence that the constant changing of weight, up and down, can be a contributing factor in the development of heart disease."

Mrs. Hall—a member of the Meat Board's Nutrition Research Department, and the mother of two teen-agers herself—noted that the problem is compounded by the typical coach's popularity and influence with young people.

"Traditionally, teen-agers have tended to pay more attention to the coach than to their own parents or to health teachers and other adults," she asserted. "There's a certain amount of hero image here and with that comes the feeling that what the coach says is gospel, whether it has to do with athletic instruction, or general youth counselling or training table practices.

"Because he DOES exert so much influence on the eating patterns of his athletes—and others—it becomes his responsibility to guide young people into eating habits which are related to normal growth and development rather than abnormal weight manipulation. The right weight for any teenager—athletes included—is that weight which the medical charts deem best for a person of his particular height and build."

What IS the right diet for the athlete? An article in the September issue of the American Medical Association's "Today's Health" magazine described it thusly:

"A strenuously exercising athlete needs more food than the average person of the same age and the same size. But he needs the same variety of food values blended into the same adqeuate diet. . . .

"Like anyone else, an athlete needs a daily diet which includes the 'basic four': four glasses of milk, three or more servings of protein foods (meat, fish, poultry, eggs and cottage cheese), five or more servings of vegetables and fruits and four or more servings of whole-grain or enriched breads or cereals. Because he is exercising heavily, the athlete probably will eat more of each of these foods than the average person—but he should eat only as much more as will permit him to maintain his desired weight."

Sausage, Corn Make Cakes For a Supper

When you want to play the tune for a simple supper, consider the savory appeal of sausage and corn made into panfried cakes.

These are both hearty and appetizing, combining as they do two such flavor favorites, pork sausage and corn. Made into a batter with eggs and baking powder, a meat expert advises dropping this mixture into lard or drippings to fry into attractive golden brown cakes.

They can be served for a delightful Sunday night supper when it's grown chilly, along with fruit salad, hot biscuits and jelly and baked custard for dessert.

SAUSAGE-CORN CAKES
1 pound fresh pork sausage
1 can (16 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
¾ cup sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs
¼ cup corn liquid or milk
2 tablespoons lard or drippings

Cook sausage in frying pan until lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Combine sausage and corn. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs. Add liquid and eggs to sifted dry ingredients. Stir meat and corn mixture into batter. Add lard or drippings to pan in which sausage was cooked. Drop sausage mixture by spoonfuls into hot drippings and brown on both sides. 6 servings.

Roll Banana In a Thin Slice of Ham

Bananas bundled in thin ham blankets, baked and served with a cheese sauce, will bring cheers from the girls when they gather for luncheon. Then, too, since these are so simply made and easily baked, the homemaker can avoid the usual kitchen fluster which might well come when entertaining.

"Boiled" ham which is really simmered rather than boiled can be purchased packaged, sliced to order or sliced from a piece at home, advises a meat expert. Prepared mustard goes next to the ham, then the peeled banana.

A good menu might include buttered rice and almonds, asparagus, molded Bing cherry salad and mint sherbet for dessert.

HAM BANANA ROLLS WITH CHEESE SAUCE
6 thin slices "boiled" ham
Prepared mustard
6 firm bananas-x
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
Cheese Sauce

x-Use all-yellow or slightly green-tipped bananas.

Spread each slice of ham lightly with mustard. Peel bananas. Wrap a slice of the prepared ham around each banana. Brush tips of bananas with butter or margarine. Place Ham Banana Rolls into a greased shallow baking dish and pour Cheese Sauce over them. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) 30 minutes, or until bananas are tender. Serve hot with Cheese Sauce. 6 servings.

CHEESE SAUCE
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1¼ cups milk
2 cups grated sharp American cheese

Melt better or margarine in saucepan. Add flour and stir until smooth. Stir in milk slowly and cook until thickened. Fold in cheese, stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Yield: Approximagely 2 cups of sauce.

Pear Pie Is Prize Winner

Open-Face Pear Pie is sure to win applause. Over 3 cups of sliced unpeeled fresh Bartlett pears, pour a mixture of ½-cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ½-teaspoon salt, 1 egg, ½-teaspoon vanilla and 1-cup dairy-sour cream. Spoon into a 9-inch unbaked pastry shell and bake at 400 degrees for 35 minutes. Then top with a streusel topping made by combining ½-cup butter with ½-cup flour, 1-4 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Bake an additional 10 minutes or until golden brown on top.

This is architectural concept of new San Francisco Pay Less Store, to be sited on an eight-acre plot on Alemany Boulevard, bounded by the Southern Freeway, Worchester Avenue and St. Charles.

Pay Less Breaks Ground For New Alemany Store

Official ground breaking ceremonies took place last week in San Francisco on Alemany Boulevard marking the first phase of Skaggs Pay Less Drug Stores' entry into the area.

The ceremonies were attended by Pay Less officials, and representatives of local residents from the immediate area surrounding the location.

At the ground breaking, William L. Gherra, president of Skaggs Pay Less Drug Stores said "... we at Pay Less are extremely excited about the action now taking place on our property and are looking forward to the actual construction which will begin November 1. Much planning has gone into this shopping complex to make it a scene of beauty, and to afford ease of shopping through store layout and interior decor."

The store site, the largest area to be rezoned from residential to commercial since the new zoning master plan was adopted by the City and County of San Francisco in 1960, has undergone a dramatic metamorphosis; the demolition of the old greenhouses and the removal of 114,000 yards of fill have been completed.

Bids are now being accepted and will be issed tomorrow.

Actual construction will begin November 1.

Completion is scheduled for fall, 1967.

The 109,000 square foot, $3.5 million project will have many features unique to San Francisco, including a "first" for the United States. The Pay Less complex will be San Francisco's first retail store with a roof-top parking area. Access between the roof-top parking and the main shopping floor below for both customers and shopping carts will be provided by the installation of two 86-foot Sandvik "Movators"—moving ramps of rubber-covered endless belt of solid spring steel traveling at a safety speed of 90 feet per minute. Accord g to Charles F. Gregory, district supervisor-director, this will be the first "Movator" installation of its type in the U.S. The store itself will feature a new concept for San Franciscans—true "one-stop" shopping. Almost everything for the family, including major appliances, television, nursery, hardware, supermarket, on-premise bakery, will all be under one roof.

Parking space will be provided for 700 cars.

'Mightier Than Sword' Sermon

'Mightier Than the Sword" a 16-mm color-sound-motion film. produced by Moody Institute of Science, will be shown Sunday evening at the 7 p.m. Family Fellowship Gosepl Hour of the Westside Baptist Church of San Bruno.

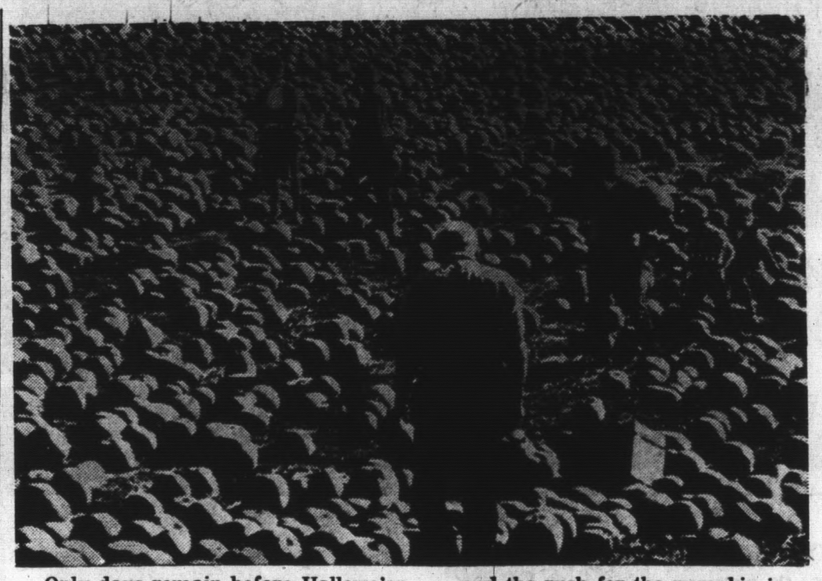
At this service, special music will be provided by the Westside Ladies Trio, composed of Mesdames Lucy Johnson and Betty Swanson, and Miss Donna Wallin.

"The Christian Worker" is the sermon topic chosen by Pastor A. David Donnelly for the 11 a.m. Sunday service. This message is taken from the ninth chapter of First Corinthians. Special music will be by the adult choir, and the Westside Male Quartet, Bill Anderson, James Besser, Alton Swedberg, and Pastor Donnelly.

Primary Church, a service during the last half of the adult worship service for primary and kindergarten children, is conducted by student workers, Mr. and Mrs. Del Johnson.

The "Good News" Sunday School enlivenment program continues in its fourth week at Westside Baptist. There are 12 age graded, Bible-centered classes, one for every member of the family.

During this hour, Pastor Donnelly will be conducting a class for boys and girls, at which topics such as "What Is a Christian?" "What do Baptists Believe?" 'What Is the Church?" How to become a member of the church, and a brief historical picture of the Baptist General Conference, are covered.



Only days remain before Hallowe'en . . . and the rush for the pumpkin is on at Half Moon Bay, where the potential jack o' lantern is in abundance. Big ones, little ones—a size for all—attracted folks from throughout the area. (Post Photo)

Re-Dedication Services Slated

Plans that have been made for an annual every-member visitation and the past month of work with committees and individuals in South San Francisco's Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church future efforts are to be culminated in the Re-Dedication Services, October 30 at 8:30 and 11 a.m.

Prospects for the coming year have been analyzed by the steering committee of members who recommend for a more effective serving of its people, the church continue the ten per cent contributions to world missions also, to renew the services of a second staff member to assist in the program of teaching and working with youth.

Each family of the congregation will be invited to participate in a beautiful religious rite, a re-dedication of self and energy to the promotion of God's kingdom. Pastor Irvin Tweet will lead all in the re-dedication service. " moment of quiet, in prayer together and request that God's blessing will be upon our lives and our work as a church."

Visitation in the homes for commitments to financially support the congregation's budget will be made in homes by twenty teams of visitors. Visits will be made during the week of October 30. Robert Burgess, Marvin Tarbox, Walter Johnson and Mrs. Elmer Laursen have directed the planning.

Lutherans To Confirm Nine Sunday

On Reformation Sunday nine young people of Westlake Lutheran Church will make their confirmation vows at the 11 a.m. worship service.

After two years of study in the Christian faith as taught in the Lutheran Church, these youth will now take their places as confirmed members of the congregation.

On the following Sunday the group will participate in the Sacrament of the Altar for the first time.

Times and heights of tides at San Mateo Bridge, California. Furnished by Marine Exchange, Inc., from Coast and Geodetic Survey Data. Half Moon Bay tide 2 hours and 10 minutes earlier.

The columns at heights give the elevation of each tide above or below the level of Coast Survey Chart surroundings. "DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

Small cavities in the teeth can be filled more easily and with less discomfort than large ones.
If decay is neglected it leads to infection and abscess formation. An infected tooth is a hazard to good health and often must be removed.
A tooth that has been lost should be replaced by an artificial one. If it is not, the other teeth will shift. This shifting may lead to more decay and to diseases of the gums.
Irregular placement of the teeth should be corrected for many reasons: To improve appearance, speech, and the ability to chew food and to help prevent other dental diseases.
Have your dentist check for cavities and follow his recommendations if treatment is needed.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for same, however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth as dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

FAIRMONT SHOPPING CENTER IS LOCATED IN HENRY DOELGER'S FAIRMONT COMMUNITY IN SCENIC PACIFICA

FAIRMONT SHOPPING CENTER IS DESIGNED, BUILT, AND OWNED BY OWNER BY HENRY DOELGER ENTERPRISES

Grand Opening FAIRMONT Shopping Center

'Unique' Shop Center At Fairmont to Open

Fairmont Shopping Center, built by Henry Doelger Enterprises, as a part of the Fairmont community in Pacifica, will be opened to the public today at 9:00 a.m. at its location just off Skyline Boulevard at Hickey Boulevard and Gateway Drive.

The new Fairmont Shopping Center is unique in many ways, pointed out Jack Kendree, managing director of Doelger Shopping Center, and foremost among its features, which make it stand out from other shopping centers, is its covered and deeply carpeted malls.

All stores within the giant center open onto these climate conditioned malls, so that no shopper ever has to brave the cold breezes of winter, or go out into the rain, to go from one store to another.

In the center of one of the malls is a huge aviary, where birds sing constantly. Flowers decorate the walls, and light is filtered through high-up windows with colored panes. A massive modern chandelier dominates the intersection of the two great malls of Fairmont Shopping Center.

Off of the malls is a completely distinctive grouping of individually owned stores; yet because of their access to the interior malls, it is similar to shopping in a giant department store. Largest of the group of stores is the 52,000 square foot Safeway Store, which in addition to the food store, includes the Safeway Drug Center, a bakery and a lunch counter.

The giant Safeway group occupies the entire end of the shopping center.

Ernie's Liquors, which operate a number of liquor stores in San Francisco and the surrounding vicinity are opening in the Fairmont Shopping Center, in a location immediately across the mall from the Safeway Store. Likewise the Fairmont Delicatessen, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gwilliams is an eye-catching, colorfully decorated store.

Nora's Beauty Salon is done in classical Greco-Roman style, with a marble front and every attention given to achieving a beautiful and luxurious decor inside. The salon is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. C. Sotelo.

The barber shop, owned by Woody Green, who operates shops in both Westlake Shopping Center and Skyline Plaza, is a gem amongst tonsorial parlors. Its decor is in Turn-of-the-Century style, with walls done in rich dark paneling and red flocoked wallpaper.

Opening shortly, and now in preparation is the Fairmont Branch of the Bank of America. This will be the third branch that this bank will be operating in the City of Pacifica. It will occupy a location in the front of the shopping center facing on Gateway Drive.

Opposite it, and also in preparation, with plans of an early opening, is the Golden Coach Cocktail lounge, which is owned by Bruno Scatena, whose Joe's of Westlake has been a popular dining and cocktail place for the past ten years.

Fairmont Cleaners, which is operated by W. B. Baldwin, and which is also opening today, in addition to cleaning services, offers the most modern in coin operated and finish laundry.

George Sweat will open his store today, a Home Service Center which will provide home owners with all the necessities they may need for home redecorating, repairs and hardware for around-the-home needs.

Jack Hill and Associates are opening an Interior Decorating service to be known as Fairmont Contract Interiors. Carpeting in the malls of Fairmont Shopping Center, and in many of the stores, were provided by Mr. Hill and his associates, who will provide a similar service for home owners.

To open shortly will be Shaw's Candy and Ice Cream, to be operated by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilhelm. The store is now in preparation and will be open shortly.

BUILDER HENRY DOELGER

To launch the new Fairmont Shopping Center, on the first day, every adult visiting it, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m., will receive a souvenir gift.

Some of the gifts will have special markings which will entitle the holders to valuable prizes, which range all the way from merchanadise orders, to lady's and gentlemen's wrist watches, to a hundred dollar bill.

Also commencing on the first day, visitors will receive free drawing tickets to Fairmont Shopping Center's $5,000 prize contest.

Pacifica Trio Hurt In Wreck

Three Pacifica teenagers were injured last Friday night in a wreck that followed a wild ride in an automobile driven by an unlicensed 15-year-old.

Police said Dennis McFarland, 984 Crespi Drive, was driving the vehicle, "borrowed" from his mother without her knowledge, when it careened around the corner at Terra Nova Boulevard and Oddstad about 11 p.m. and struck a utility pole and broke off a valve to a gas main.

After the wreck, officers said the youthful driver left the scene of the accident and then telephoned the police department and reported the vehicle had been stolen. He later admitted being the driver of the vehicle.

Injured were Donna Bracamontes, 15, 202 Lauren, who was hospitalized with a broken leg, and Gale Benise, 16, Number Seven Yosemite Drive, who received a broken nose. Both were taken to Mary's Help Hospital.

Management Of Safeway Drug Center Named

Don Laughrey has been appointed manager of the Fairmont Safeway Drug Center, at Hickey Boulevard and Gateway Drive, Pacifica.

He joined the Safeway organization as a toiletries buyer in 1964 and later worked on new store set-ups in Dallas and Garland, Texas, and Ogden, Utah. Laughrey most recently was assistant manager of the Berkeley Safeway Drug Center. He is a native of Oakland and a graduate of San Jose State College, where he majored in business administration. He and his wife Ginger, recently moved from Concord to Daly City, with their three children, Bruce. Denise and Steven.

Sheldon Blank, a ten year veteran employee, has been named manager of the food store. He started as a food clerk in San Francisco, and later served in supervisory capacities prior to appointment as store manager in 1964.

Blank was born in San Francisco and is a graduate of San Francisco State College, with a degree in business administration. He and his wife, Margaret, live in South San Francisco, with their two children, Richard and Alan.

Obley H. Wilson will manage the store's bakery. He has been employed by Safeway as a baker since 1964, and currently is employed in the bakery in the Millbrae store. He has had a number of years experience in the baking industry prior to joining Safeway Stores. He resides in San Mateo with his wife, Phyllis, and two children, Joanne and Jimmie.

Mrs. Betty Silverman will manage the Safeway Snack Bar. Mrs. Silverman has been with Safeway since 1962, when she was hired as a waitress in the Millbrae store. She was promoted to cook in September 1962. She lives in Millbrae with her husband, Sal.

S.S.F. Youth Arrested On Beached Ship

A South San Francisco teenager finally managed to board the once-good ship USS Johnson last night and was arrested and charged with trespassing for his efforts, Pacifica police said today.

Officers said a 17-year-old South San Francisco high school student was discovered aboard by a member of the "round-the-clock" guard force maintained on the ship by the owners, about 12:30 a.m. today.

Car Coat on Engine Overheats—Burns

South San Francisco firemen have become accustomed to fighting just about every type of blaze.

The alarm that came in to the main station at 6 a.m. was "just another call" to the dispatcher.

A pumper responded to the intersection of King Road and Junipero Serra Boulevard, where an excited woman was pointing toward her car and screaming, "My car coat is on fire!"

Sure enough when firemen raised the car's hood they found an old coat draped over the hot engine burning fiercely.

"It's an old car and it gets awful cold in Pacifica—that's why I put the coat over the engine. I guess I forgot to take it off this morning before I started to work," she explained.

Landscaping 60 Different Plants Included

The $240,000 landscaping project on Cabrillo Highway, State Highway 1 in Pacifica will be completed "around the first of next year," a spokesman for the California State Highway Department said today.

Work on the project is now centered on the irrigation system, with over 60 varieties of plants scheduled to be planted as soon as irrigation is available.

Ice plants will be used as the basic "ground cover" in the project, with shrubs along the boundaries serving as a border. About 600 trees, including representattives of several of eucalyptus, Monterey pine and cypress will be planted.

About half the total expenditure on the project is going into irrigation, the Highway Department espokesman said with the remainder allowed to the actual planting.

Escapee Is Recaptured

Pacifica police captured a 16 year old escapee from the Log Cabin Ranch last Thursday night after receiving a description of a stolen automobile taken from a lot near the detention facility.

Spindrift Players to Gather

The Spindrift Players will meet October 28 at 8 p.m. at the Pacifica Library, Palmetto and Hilton, in Sharp Park.

An original comedy skit and improvisations in pantomime were features of a previous Spindrift meeting.

Marie Delagen read her script of an interview with a creature from another planet. The subject was named Zero 748315111 and "it" described itself as an advanced being not bothered by earthly demarcation of sex. Costuming, Miss Delangen explained, could be an upside down effect, with shirt for trousers and trousers for shirt, with shoes and an antenna atop the head.

The author explained that the vehicle which brought the creature to earth was similarly landed in Pacifica in a manner of the recent beaching of the USS Johnson at Mori's Point.

Barbara Carroll, a drama major student at San Francisco State College, directed various exercises in pantomime. Miss Delangen and Ethel Marks portrayed an irate restaurant customer and an indifferent waitress. Sydney Clark and Luther Spraker acted out a female student at a dance studio learning the "shimy."

Stuart Brickley and Nathaniel Marks played a clothing store salesman and a shoplifter walking out wearing two jackets. Jane and Julian Graw detailed the difficulties of coaching an actor in his lines and "business."

Sanford Wheeler and Don Gentleman drew steady applause for their presentation of a movie patron disturbed by his neighbor eating popcorn and reacting to the picture.

A "let's get on with the show" decision was made regarding future meetings, it was announced by Stuart Brickley, president. He said that regular business would be at a minimum and meeting time devoted mainly to practice in acting, stagecraft and discussion of the performing arts.

The Spindrift Playhouse will produce a full scale production, probably a recent successful Broadway comedy, scheduled for January.

Open tryouts and casting will be announced in a week or so, it was decided.

Xi Lambda Phi Plans Cookbook Sale Effort

with a desire for community service and the result is a unique cookbook now on sale through members of Xi Lambda Phi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

President Donna Shapton relates that recipes included in "The Best of Cooking in Pacifica" are favorites donated by local women. Proceeds will support the American Field Service in their foreign student exchange program. Interested persons may phone June Nash, 359-3490, or Karen Johnson, 355-0212.

Pacifica City Council of Beta Sigma Phi has made preliminary plans for a Valentine Ball to be held at Princeton Inn on February 18. Each of the three chapters in the council are currently selecting a "valentine queen candidate," one of whom will be chosen through ticket sale votes to reign as the Valentine Ball's official queen.

Xi Lambda Phi members are interspersing their cultural and service projects with a hayride and party on October 29.

S-DA Adult Bible Study Lessons Set

"Lord, help me keep my mouth shut!"

That common appeal is the basis for a special study at the Pacifica Seventh-Day Adventist Church on October 29, at 9:30 a.m.

Every adult member of the church will study a Bible lesson "The Spirit of Self-Control," during the church's Sabbath school service whhich begins at 9:30 a.m.

"Every Christian needs to learn the secret of greater self-control asserted Crees in announcing the special church study. "It is also most important for Christians to learn Christ-control in their lives."

Texts studied will come from the biblical books of Isiah, Matthew, Proverbs, James, 1 Corinthians, Jeremiah, John, Galatians, Romans and Psalms. The key verse of study will be Psalms 1.41:3 which asks, "Set a Watch, O Lord, Before My Mouth; Keep the Door of My Lips."

The Bible study is one of a series of 13 studies the local church is considering during the months of October, November and December, 1966, under the general title of "The Spray Spirit-Filled Life."

At present the Pacifica Seventh-Day Adventists hold services Saturday mornings at the St. Edmund's Episcopal Church, 1500 Perez Drive, Linda Mar.

Bethel Bible Study Series To Begin at Bethlehem

The first semester of the Bethel Bible study series will begin at Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Pacifica, November 2, announced the Rev. M. Douglas Swendseid, pastor.

Class sessions will be held Wednesdays from 7.30 to 8:30 p.m., taught by lay teachers of the church who have engaged in an intensive program of disciplined study for two years in order to prepare themselves to teach other members of the church.

Registration for the first class of 30 members is closed and additional registrants are being placed on a waiting list for a second class which will begin in January.

The Bethel series is an extensive adult Bible study program now used by more than 1200 churches throughout the country. Using a series of 40 dramatic paintings and systematic presentation of the basic concepts of the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, the Bethel series aims to acquaint adults with the great, unifying Biblical themes. To date, more than 100,000 adults in the United States, representing all of the major Protestant denominations are being taught by lay teachers using the Bethel series.

This Sunday, at the 11 a.m. service, Bethlehem Lutheran Church is receiving new members by transfer from other churches.

You'll find Cultured Chinese cuisine fit for the most discriminating dinner served in the Longevity Room. . . . Seen dining at Coyote Point's beautiful Castaway restaurant, recently, in the company of his lovely wife, Rosemary, was Palo Alto Cabana Hotel's newly appointed Vice President Hank Stickelmaier. Said General Manager George Tribelhorn, "They were not only impressed with the Castaway's food and service, but with the panoramic view." . . . Looking for a fun place to take the lady-of-your-heart for dining and dancing? If so, the Blue Peacock Restaurant in Millbrae features the sweet sounds of the fabulous Romanos. . . . Ray Milland raved to George Marianetti over the full course Italian dinner he enjoyed at the Fior d'Italia, San Francisco.

STICKNEY'S OF SAN MATEO is now featuring the rhythmic piano beat of popular Bay Area entertainer, Gary Lee, in the fabulous Stagecoach cocktail lounge and restaurant, located in the Fifth Avenue Center. Lee plays and sings pop tunes during the special 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. cocktail hour, then entertains evening diners with delightful background piano stylings each Tuesday through Saturday . . . Gold Street, just off Montgomery in San Francisco, is where the crowds are now enjoying generous drinks for only 50 cents. Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., ladies only, are served the best in bubbling champagne for only 50 cents. The glass is bottomless—everytime it's empty, it's filled again by gorgeous Gold Street cocktail waitresses in their eye-appealing Gay 90's costumes.

ELTON PARIS, the singing and swinging comedian at Finocchio's in San Francisco's North Beach section, celebrated the biggest day in his entire life, recently—turning age 40, completing 10 years as a headliner in the famous female impersonation revue, and buying himself an apartment house in swanky Pacific Heights. All in one day! Paris makes no attempt to glamorize his six feet four physique: Even wearing horn-rimmed glasses during his act. But his swinging and singing style of dancing and vocalizing is a smash every show. What amazes fans is to hear him finish a song in a falsetto voice, then boom out in his natural bass—thanks a heckuva lot, folks." A fine entertainer . . . You'll be dazzled by a fortune in British antiques and art objects when dining at Frank Martinelli's 'appy Knight in Hillsdale. It's a show-place with a Continental menu for the discriminating.

Elton Paris

WILBUR STUMP is now appearing at the piano Sunday through Tuesday nights at The Mesa in San Bruno. Known for his unique style and mastery of the keyboard, Wilbur is one of the finest entertainers in the business. 3 Bees and a Honey, big Peninsula favorites, entertain on weekends. . . . You can have the time of your life at Larry's Edgemar Club, Pacifica's only night club, where "Guys n' Girdles," a new Fall revue starring Mr. J. J. Van Dyck, has been drawing Wednesday-through-Sunday capacity crowds. Watch Bright Lights' column next Friday for information on the Edgemar's up-coming Halloween party. Owner Larry Shulman and Mgr. Bill Granger say it will be wild . . . Felina Kirk, international chanteuse at Gomans' Gay 90's, gets rousing applause when she sings Nancy Sinatra's hit song, "Boots." Felina sings it in German.

JO ELLA CAIN is the shapely gal responsible for that "peek-a-boo" fashion show held last Friday night during the cocktail hour at Plateau 7 in San Jose. "Fashion Goes to the French Riviera" (with accordionist Mike Maffei supplying the "Frenchy" background music) proved so successful that Gen. Mgr. Andre Gubbels decided to feature a similar show each week. . . . "Business is better than ever for the International Inn, South San Francisco," says Gen. Mgr. Phil Rauscher. It should be, since over the years the "Inn" has always been one of the best restaurants in the area offering food and service that is incomparable. . . . Here's a Sunday tip: The Ramos Fizz Brunch served at San Francisco's Hotel Canterbury. Visitors from N'Orleans tell Mgr. Jim Hamilton his Fizz is better than the one served in their home town—where it originated.

Jo Ella Cain

DON COREY AND THE CAMPS are currently headlining the marquee each night at Bill Gilbert's Tiger Club at the Airport's Hilton Inn. The boys, who are rapidly climbing to the top of the popularity polls, have two new records out that are bound to be hits. This popular Peninsula nite spot boasts of having "The most beautiful Tiger Kittens in the world." . . . Try the intimate Bowlero Room at the Camino Bowl, Mountain View, for a complete evening of cocktails, dinner and dancing. The Les Czimber Trio entertains for "around-the-fireplace" sipping, listening and dancing. Also vocal impressions and romantic singing by Bob Warren . . . the Tahoe 3-Day Pass offers a mid-week bargain package at the glamourous South Shore of Lake Tahoe which provides three days and two nights of fun and entertainment for just $9.95 per person.

Bill Gilbert

Fork 'n' Cork Musical Treat

Louis Bartel, pianist, singer and composer, is currently appearing Friday and Saturday nights at the Fork 'n' Cork, formerly Taddy's Inn, on El Camino, San Mateo. With a musical background ranging from classical to jazz, Lois is always bubbling forth with new musical arrangements. She plays and sings through her repertoire of show tunes, sing-a-longs and popular sounds with professional ease. See you at the Fork 'n' Cork?

Engler's Offers A New World Of Dining

If you'd care to enter a new world of dining enjoyment, Engler's in San Francisco is a "must" on your next evening out. Specializing in the finest Middle East dishes, partners Ed Samawi and Munir Bahou are proud to offer their guests a wide choice of entrees and "side gourmet dishes."

Engler's menu ranges from Kifta Kebab to Warak Areesh, and includes a fine selection of domestic and imported wines. You'll find the atmosphere is stimulating, the service is excellent, and the location convenient. Dinner is served from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Not open Sundays and Mondays.

In the mood for luscious food served in an atmosphere of merry ol' England? Try Les Hylton's Bit of England, in Burlingame, where Chef Henri Barbeau's luncheons and dinners are the talk of the town.

The Lake Chabot Golf Club held their cocktail-dinner-dance party in the Pavilion Room at the Hotel Claremont, Berkeley, with 120 attending.

'You're "out of key" if you haven't tried the sing-a-longs at the piano bar in Jim Boasso's Kahili Hut, Belmont. Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, the Hut sways with the songs and "88ing" of talented Marge.

Lew Lehr has a cocktail at his Marina steakhouse called "Little David." Three of them and you Goliath down.

Gourmets: The French cuisine served at La Touraine in Burlingame is delightful — up to and including the Diet Plate. Prices are right, too.

The Stern Motto 'Once a Visitor! You're a Member'

Clare and Ray Stern, the 225 Baldwin Avenue, San Mateo, health studio owners (who do their best to keep your Bright Lighter in shape), are a little sad. Seems the other evening a baddie broke in the club, found no loot and left without even taking a workout.

Clue for the culprit: If he ever comes back and has a chat with Ray Stern, you can be sure he'll be signed up as a new member.

Two Great Shows Now at Bimbo's

There are two fine shows now appearing at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant for the price of one — the new "Oriental Holiday Revue" in the elaborate theater room, and Hrach Yacoubian and his company of musicians and dancers in The Action Lounge.

"Oriental Holiday Revue" features world renown dancer, Takeuchi Keigo, and his Imperial Dancers from Japan. Special guest star is Poncie Ponce, multi-talented performer from ABC Television's "Hawaiian Eye" series; San Francisco's own singing sensation, Primo Kim; and lovely Ayako Hosokawa, Japanese opera star. The production came from a successful 15-week engagement at New York's Latin Quarter, and their costumes chosen for the San Francisco appearance were specially created in Japan.

Taste tip of the week: Cannelloni "Napolitano" at Dino's of San Mateo. Baked in tomato and Bechamel sauce. Nuf said.

Entertainment At The Sinaloa Except Bullfight

Just about everything in Mexico is highlighted at Luz Garcia's Sinaloa on Powell Street, except the bull fights. Causing loud "Ole's" during the exciting all-Latin floor shows is Luisa, the petite senorita with flashing eyes, who enhances the cantina's revues with her Mexican vocals.

The Franciscan restaurant, San Francisco, has long been accepted as one of Fisherman's Wharf's most recommended dining spots, catering to an expansive clientele who enjoy fine food, impeccably prepared.

Be sure and catch the George Cerrutti Trio now appearing in the Villa Lounge. For dancing or pure listening pleasure, you can't find a sweeter sound anywhere.

The Original Amateur Topless Contests at the Galaxie on San Francisco's Broadway is smashing all crowd records. They go on every hour every night.

Week after week, Scotty Campbell's restaurant in Redwood City is packed with particular people aware of the winning combination — "Selective menu and charming atmosphere."

Retirement Dinner For Bruno Jahn

Mr. Bruno Jahn, associated with Lucky Lager Brewing Corporation since it's founding, was recently honored at a retirement banquet at Joe and Lou Ercoli's Leaning Tower restaurant in South San Francisco. Over 40 of Mr. Jahn's business associates gathered to wish him many happy years of retirement well earned.

One of the most impressive entrances to any restaurant in San Francisco is that of the Taylor-Ellis entrance to Phil Lehr's Steakery and elegant Wellington Room. You descend the richly carpeted stairs through a gold curtain.

As usual, the fireplace alcove in the plush Burlingame Black Horse was first come, first served, last weekend. Although just recently opened, many couples are already becoming regulars here.

Doran's in Belmont is one of the area's truly fine restaurants. Appetizing food, excellent service and tasteful surroundings are conditions to expect when dining here.
